(2.) If the replevisor succeed in his action, the sums deposited for the amount of rent shall be paid over to him and the defendant shall pay to the replevisor such costs as he may have been put to or which may have been awarded to him by sentence of the Court.

(3.) If the defendant succeeds in the action the Court shall find the value of the goods so distrained and judgment shall be given for the amount of such value if the same does not exceed the amount of rent for which the distress was made, but if the amount of the value so found exceeds the amount of such rent, judgment shall be given for the amount of such rent and the replevisor shall, in either case, pay all costs which the defendant may have been put to or such costs as may be awarded by the sentence of the Court, and such judgment with the costs shall be satisfied out of the sums so deposited or in case of a recognizance by estreating the same.

(4.) No other cause of action shall be joined in an action for replevin but this shall not prevent the party aggrieved from pursuing his remedy under Section 12 of this Ordinance or of making such claim for damages as he may deem fit.

Liability of person distraining
rent due.

12. In case any such distress as aforesaid is made, by virtue or under colour of this Ordinance, for rent pretended to be in arrear and due, where in truth no rent is in arrear or due to the person distraining or to him in whose name or right such distress may be taken as aforesaid, then the owner of such goods or chattels distrained as aforesaid, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, shall and may, by action to be brought within three months after the date of such distress against the person so distraining, his heirs, executors, or administrators, recover double the value of the rent claimed and distrained for, together with full costs of suit. (4 of 1846, s. 13.)

Preference
of landlord over execution creditors for rent
due to certain amount.

13.—(1.) Where an execution is levied upon any goods or chattels whatsoever lying or being in or upon any lands which are leased for life or lives, term of years, at will, or otherwise, such goods and chattels shall be sold by virtue of any such execution, subject to the right of the landlord of the said premises to payment out of the net proceeds of such sale of such sum of money as may be due for rent for the said premises at the time of the taking such goods and chattels by virtue of such execution: Provided always that the said arrears of rent do not amount to more than one year's rent or to more than two hundred and forty dollars.

(2.) The proper officer of the Court shall, without further authority or warrant than is hereby granted, in every such case pay out to the landlord, after deduction of the costs of execution only, all and every sum and sums not exceeding one year's rent or two hundred and forty dollars as aforesaid. (4 of 1846, s. 14.)

in making distress.

14.—(1.) Where any distress is made for any rent justly due, and any irregularity or unlawful act is afterwards done by the party distraining or by his agent, the distress itself shall not be therefore deemed to be unlawful, nor the party making it be deemed a trespasser ab initio, but the party aggrieved by such irregularity or unlawful act may recover, by action in any Court of competent jurisdiction, full satisfaction for the special damage which he may have sustained thereby, and no more: Provided always that where the plaintiff recovers in such action, he shall be paid his full costs of suit and have all the like remedies for the same as in other cases.

(2.) No tenant or lessee shall recover in any action for any such irregularity or unlawful act as aforesaid, if tender of sufficient amends has been made by the party distraining or his agent before such action brought. (4 of 1846, s. 15.)

Recovery of Possession of Tenements.

15. Where the tenant of any house or room held by him as a tenant from month to month at a rent not exceeding the rate of five dollars a month, fails to pay the rent due within fourteen days or in case of a weekly tenant within seven days after the day on which such rent becomes due and payable, such failure shall be deemed a determination of the tenancy, and the landlord may proceed to recover possession of the said house or room under the provisions of this Ordinance.

Neglect to pay rent a determination of tenancy in certain cases.

16.—(1.) Whenever the term or interest of any tenant of any tenement held by him for any term, either without being liable to the payment of any rent or at a rent not exceeding the rate of two hundred and forty dollars a year, has ended or has been determined by a legal notice to quit, or otherwise, if such tenant (or, when such tenant does not himself occupy the premises or only a part thereof, if the person by whom the same or any part thereof is occupied) refuses or neglects to deliver up possession of the same, the following proceedings shall be lawful :—

Proceedings for recovery of possession of tenement after determination of tenancy.

Form No. 7.

(a.) It shall be lawful for the landlord of the said tenement or his known agent to claim possession of the premises before a Magistrate, and the Magistrate shall, on the complaint being sworn to before him, cause such tenant or occupier to be served with a summons in writing, signed by any Magistrate, to appear before the Magistrate of the District in which the premises are situated to show cause why possession of the said premises should not be delivered up;

(b.) If such tenant or occupier does not appear at the time and place appointed, or does appear but does not show, to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, reasonable cause why possession should not be delivered up, and still refuses or neglects to deliver up the possession of the said premises to the said landlord or agent, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate, on proof of the holding and of the end or determination of the tenancy and the time and manner thereof, (and, where the title of the landlord may have accrued since the letting of the premises, on proof of the right by which he claims the possession) to issue a warrant to any constable or bailiff requiring and authorizing him, within a period to be named therein, being not less than three clear days from the date of such warrant, to give possession of the premises to such landlord or agent; and such warrant shall be a sufficient warrant to any constable or bailiff executing the same to enter upon the premises, with such assistants as he may deem necessary, and to give possession accordingly; but such entry shall not be made on a Sunday, Good Friday, Christmas Day, or public holiday, or at any time except between the hours of nine in the morning and four in the afternoon; and (c.) Where the tenement consists of lands and there are growing crops thereon which have been planted by the tenant or by those from whom he derives his interest, the Magistrate may direct that the landlord shall, before obtaining such warrant, deposit with him the value of such growing crops, after deducting the amount of what may be due and will become due for rent of the land up to the time when such warrant will become executable, and after deducting the costs incurred, if the value of such crops exceeds the said sum. The Magistrate shall have full power to inquire into and determine the value of such crops, and the Magistrate, on the warrant being returned executed, may direct that the amount be paid over to the person who was formerly the tenant. The Magistrate may authorise any person or persons to enter on the lands the possession of which is claimed, and direct him or them to appraise the value of such growing crops. Every person so appointed may enter on the said lands and examine the said crops. Every person who obstructs any person so appointed shall be guilty of an offence, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty-four dollars.

(2.) If any person who, previously to the execution of any such warrant, was a tenant, after the execution of such warrant re-enters on the said tenement, he shall be deemed a wilful trespasser, and shall be treated accordingly, unless such person has acquired title to the tenement after such warrant has been issued: Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to protect any person by whom any such warrant to deliver possession of any such tenement may be sued out as aforesaid from any action which may be brought against him by any such tenant or occupier for or in respect of such entry and taking possession where such person had not, at the time of suing out the same as aforesaid, lawful right to the possession of the said premises. (4 of 1846, s. 17.)

summons on tenant or occupier.

17. Every summons issued under the provisions of this Ordinance to any tenant or occupier to appear before a Magistrate may be served either personally or by leaving the same for him with some person in occupation of such tenement, and, where the tenant of such tenement does not reside therein, either by serving the same personally upon him or by leaving the same at his usual place of abode two clear days before the day appointed for the appearance; but if the person so holding over cannot be found, and admission into the premises so held over cannot be obtained, and the place of abode of such person not residing as aforesaid is either not known or admission thereto cannot be obtained, the posting of the said summons on some conspicuous part of the said premises shall be deemed to be good service upon such person. (4 of 1846, s. 18.)

18.—(1.) In every case in which the person to whom any such warrant is granted had not, at the time of granting the same, lawful right to the possession of the premises, the obtaining of any such warrant as aforesaid shall be deemed a trespass by him against the tenant or occupier of the premises, although no entry may be made by virtue of the warrant; and in case any such tenant or occupier becomes bound with two sureties as hereinafter provided, to be approved of by the Magistrate, in such sum as to him may seem reasonable, regard being had to the value of the premises and to the probable costs of an action, to sue the person to whom the warrant was granted with effect and without delay, and to pay all the costs of the proceedings in such action in case a verdict shall pass or sentence be given for the defendant, or the plaintiff shall discontinue or not prosecute his action or be nonsuited therein, execution of the warrant shall be delayed until judgment has been given in such action; and if, on the trial of such action, a verdict passes or sentence is given for the plaintiff, such verdict and sentence shall supersede the warrant so granted, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to double costs in the said action.

Case of warrant obtained without right to possession.

(2.) Every such bond shall be made to the said landlord or his agent, at the costs of such landlord or agent, and shall be approved of and signed by the Magistrate; and if the bond so taken is forfeited, or if, on the trial of the action for securing the trial of which such bond was given, the Judge by whom it is tried does not endorse upon the record in Court that the condition of the bond has been fulfilled, the party to whom the bond has been so made may bring an action, and recover thereon: Provided always that the Court where such action as last aforesaid is brought may, by order, give such relief to the parties upon such bond as may be agreeable to justice, and such order shall have the nature and effect of a defeasance to such bond. (4 of 1846, s. 19.)

19. It shall not be lawful to bring any action or prosecution against the Magistrate by whom such warrant as aforesaid may have been issued, or against any constable or bailiff by whom such warrant may be executed, for issuing such warrant or executing the same respectively, by reason that the person on whose application the same is granted had not lawful right to the possession of the premises. (4 of 1846, s. 20.)

Protection of Magistrate, &c.

Case of irregularity
in proceeding where landlord has good title to possession.

20. Where the landlord, at the time of applying for such warrant as aforesaid, had lawful right to the possession of the premises, or of the part thereof so held over as aforesaid, neither the said landlord, nor his agent, nor any other person acting in his behalf shall be deemed to be a trespasser by reason merely of any irregularity or informality in the mode of proceeding for obtaining possession under the authority of this Ordinance, but the party aggrieved may, if he thinks fit, bring an action for such irregularity or informality, in which the damage alleged to be sustained thereby shall be specially laid, and may recover full satisfaction for such special damage, with costs of suit: Provided that, if the special damage so laid is not proved, the defendant shall be entitled to a verdict or sentence, and that, if proved, but assessed by the Court at any sum not exceeding two dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages, unless the Court or Judge before whom the trial has been held certifies upon the back of the record that full costs ought to be allowed. (4 of 1846, s. 21.)

Miscellaneous Provisions.

Regulation of costs of distress and ejectment.

21. No person whatsoever making, or employed in any manner whatsoever in making any distress for rent, or in ejecting any tenant, or in doing any act whatsoever in the course of such distress, or for carrying the same into effect, shall take or receive out of the produce of the goods or chattels distrained upon and sold, or from the tenant distrained on or ejected, or from the landlord, or from any other person whatsoever, any other or more costs and charges for and in respect of such distress or ejectment, or any other matter or thing done therein, than such as are fixed and allowed by law, and appropriated to each act which may have been done in the cause of such distress or ejectment; and no person whatsoever shall make any charge whatsoever for any act, matter, or thing in respect of which such costs and charges are so fixed, allowed, and appropriated, unless such act has been really done. dule II.

Remedy for taking unauthorized costs and charges.

22.—(1.) If any person in any manner levies, takes, or receives from any person whomsoever, or retains or takes from the produce of any goods sold for the payment of such rent, any other or greater costs and charges than are so fixed, allowed, and appropriated as aforesaid or makes any charge whatsoever for any act, matter, or thing as aforesaid which has not been really done, it shall be lawful for the party aggrieved by such practices to apply to a Magistrate for the redress of his grievances so occasioned.

(2.) Such Magistrate shall summon the person complained of to appear before him at a reasonable time to be fixed in such summons, and such Magistrate shall examine into the matter of such complaint by all legal ways and means, and also hear in like manner the defence of the person complained against.

greater costs and charges than are so fixed, allowed, and appropriated as aforesaid, or made any charge for any act, matter, or thing as aforesaid which has not been really done, such Magistrate shall order and adjudge treble the amount of the moneys so unlawfully taken to be paid by the person so having acted to the party who has thus preferred his complaint thereof, together with full costs.

(4.) In case of non-payment of any moneys or costs so ordered and adjudged to be paid, such Magistrate shall forthwith issue his warrant to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party ordered to pay such moneys or costs, rendering the overplus, if any, to the owner after the payment of the charges of such distress and sale; and, in case no sufficient distress can be had, such Magistrate shall, by warrant under his hand, commit the party to prison, there to remain for any time not exceeding the space of two calendar months, unless such order or judgment is sooner satisfied. (4 of 1846, s. 23.)

(4 of 1846, s. 24)

24. It shall be lawful for such Magistrate, if he find that the complaint of the party aggrieved is not well founded, to order and adjudge costs, not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid to the party complained against, which order shall be carried into effect, and levied, and paid in such manner, and with like power of commitment, as is hereinbefore directed as to the order and judgment founded on such original complaint: Provided always that nothing herein contained shall empower such Magistrate to make any order or judgment against the landlord for whose benefit any such distress or ejectment may have been made, unless such landlord has personally levied such distress or ejected such tenant: Provided, also, that no person who may be aggrieved by any distress or any process of ejectment for rent, or by any proceedings had in the course thereof, or by any costs and charges levied upon him in respect of the same, shall be barred from any legal or other suit or remedy which he might have had before the commencement of this Ordinance, excepting so far as any complaint to be preferred under this Ordinance may have been determined by the order and judgment of the Magistrate before whom it has been heard and determined, Power to

judgment.

25. Any order and judgment on any such complaint may be proved before any Court by proof of the signature of the Magistrate to such order or judgment; and such orders as regard persons who may have been summoned as witnesses shall be made in such form as to such Magistrate may seem most fit and convenient. (4 of 1846, s. 26.)

Delivery of
copy of costs and charges of distress.

26. Every agent or other person who makes and levies any distress whatsoever shall give a copy signed by him, of his charges, and of all the costs and charges of any distress whatsoever, to the person or persons on whose goods and chattels such distress may be levied. (4 of 1846, s. 27.)

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,

Clerk of the Court.

THE DEMERARA RAILWAY COMPANY.BY-LAWS.

1.—No passenger will be allowed to enter any carriage used on the railway, or to travel therein upon the railway, unless furnished by the Company with a ticket specifying the class of carriage and the stations for conveyance between which such ticket is issued. Every passenger shall show and deliver up his ticket (whether a contract or season ticket or otherwise) to any duly authorised servant of the Company whenever required to do so for any purpose. Any passenger travelling without a ticket, or failing or refusing to show or deliver up his ticket as aforesaid, shall be subject to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

2.—Any passenger using or attempting to use a ticket on any day for which such ticket is not available, or using a ticket which has been already used on a previous journey, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

3.—Any passenger using or attempting to use a ticket for any other station than that for which it is available, will be required to pay the difference between the sum actually paid and the fare between the stations from and to which the passenger has travelled, or, at the option of the Company, the fare from the station to which he was booked to the end of his journey.

4.—Any passenger wilfully altering or defacing his ticket so as to render the date, number, or any material portion thereof illegible, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

5.—A return ticket is granted solely for the purpose of enabling the person for whom the same is issued to travel therewith to and from the stations marked thereon, and is not transferable. Any person who sells or attempts to sell, or parts, or attempts to part, with the possession of the return half of any return ticket, in order to enable any other person to travel therewith, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars, and any person purchasing such half of a return ticket, or travelling, or attempting to travel therewith, shall be liable to pay the fare which he would have been liable to pay for a single journey, and shall, in addition thereto, be subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

6.—At the intermediate stations the fares will only be accepted, and the tickets issued, conditionally, that is to say, in case there shall be room in the train for which the tickets are issued. In case there shall not be room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been issued, those to whom tickets have been issued for the longest distance shall (if reasonably practicable) have the preference, and those to whom tickets have been issued for the same distance shall (if reasonably practicable) have priority according to the order in which tickets have been issued, as denoted by the consecutive numbers stamped upon them. The Company will not, however, hold itself responsible for such order of preference or priority being adhered to, but the fare, or difference of fare, if the passenger travel by an ordinary train, in a class of carriage inferior to that for which he has a ticket, shall be immediately returned, on application, to any passenger for whom there is not room as aforesaid, if the application be made before the departure of the train.

7.—Every person smoking in any shed or covered platform of a station, or in any building of the Company, or in any carriage or compartment of a carriage not specially provided for that purpose, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars. The Company's officers and servants are required to take the necessary steps to enforce obedience to this by-law, and any person offending against it is liable, in addition to incurring the penalty above mentioned, to be summarily removed at the first opportunity from the carriage or from the Company's premises.

8.—Any person travelling without the special permission of some duly authorised servant of the Company in a carriage or by a train of a superior class to that for which his ticket was issued, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

9.—Any person stopping or attempting to stop any train, or aiding or assisting therein, when not specially authorised to do so by the Company, shall be liable in addition to any other penalty or punishment to which he may by law be subject to a penalty not exceeding Twenty-four Dollars.

10.—Any person found in a carriage, or elsewhere upon the Company's premises, in a state of intoxication, using obscene or abusive language, or writing obscene or offensive words on any part of the Company's stations or carriages, or committing any nuisance, or otherwise wilfully interfering with the comfort of other passengers, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars, and shall immediately, or, if a passenger, at the first opportunity, be removed from the Company's premises.

11.—Any person who wilfully cuts or tears any lining or window strap, or curtain, removes or defaces any number plate, or breaks or scratches any window of a carriage used on the railway, or who otherwise, except by unavoidable accident, damages, defaces, or injures any such carriage, or any station, or other property of the Company, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Twenty- four Dollars, in addition to the amount of any damage for which he may be liable.

12.—No passenger shall be permitted to travel on the steps, or foot board of any carriage, or on the engine, or in the guard's van, or on any portion of any carriage not intended for the conveyance of passengers, and any passenger persisting in doing so, after being warned to desist by the guard in charge of the train, or by any duly authorised servant of the Company, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars, and shall be liable to be summarily removed from the Company's premises.

Government Notices.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,

Georgetown, Demerara,

27th December, 1902.

WHEREAS it appears from inquiry made by the acting Commissioner of Lands and Mines that certain Mining Locations advertised in the "Official Gazette" of the 25th January, 1902, as having been made by J. C. Menzies, on the 27th November, 1901, under the prospecting licence No. 317, in the presence of two witnesses, namely: G. W. Godchaux and G. Lanferman, were not so made by the said J. C. Menzies at all; and that the said notices of location, and the corresponding applications for claim licences in favour of the said J. C. Menzies were untrue in point of fact;

And whereas it further appears from the said inquiry that the Mining Locations aforesaid, had, in truth and in fact, been a very short time previously duly made on behalf of a Syndicate called the Marshall Syndicate by E. E. H. Klautky, in presence of Messrs. Spencer, Broome, W. Harris and Rodgers, and that they were subsequently (and fraudulently) altered to the name of J. C. Menzies;

And whereas it is contrary to the public interest that such false representations should avail the maker thereof so as to secure him rights which, had he revealed the truth, would never have been conferred on him:

I, JAMES ALEXANDER SWETTENHAM, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of British Guiana, in the Executive Council, by virtue of powers in me vested by section 30 of the Amended Mining Regulations, 1899, do hereby revoke the following Claim Licences granted to the said J. BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

SUGAR CANE EXPERIMENTS.

THE following tables have been prepared from the data submitted by plantations in British Guiana which are taking part in co-operative experiments with varieties of sugar cane.

They give in the case of each variety reported upon the means of the data supplied in cases where the area reaped of a variety was not less than one acre, the figures given in the record of the experiment showing the highest return of commercial sugar, and those given in the record of the lowest return. Where canes of a variety have been reaped during the crop-year, 1901-1902, at the Board's Experimental Fields, at the Botanic Gardens, their average records are given for comparison with the results recorded by the estates as obtained on the manufacturing scale.

It is much to be regretted that the plantations belonging to one firm on whose estates experiments with varieties of sugar cane have been carried on on perhaps more extensive scales than elsewhere in the colony, have not seen their way to furnish the Sugar Cane Experiments Committee with their results.

The Sugar Cane Experiments Committee being impressed with the danger which underlies hasty deductions from agricultural experiments conducted over the crops of only one year even when carried out on the relatively large scale these have been, refrain from making any observations on the results, and from drawing any deductions therefrom. The data are placed on record for comparison with those which may be obtained in later series of experiments.

The values of the data vary greatly, the results recorded where the experiments have extended over large areas and on several plantations being generally more reliable than where, as in the cases of Nos. 625 and the Sealy variety, the areas were small and the number of experiments reported were few.

The mean yields in tons of commercial sugar per acre reported, are as follows :—

	Tons per acre.
1. No. 6252.95
2. Sealy2.49
3. No. 952.24
4. Bourbon2.18
5. No. 1452.17
6. White Transparent2.03
7. No. 742.03
8. No. 147 B1.99
9. No. 1091.91
10. No. 781.39

It must be borne in mind that in the cases of the majority of the results recorded the varieties other than the Bourbon have been grown on land on which the latter cane does not flourish, while the Bourbon returns are, as a rule, from land of fair average quality.

The Sugar Cane Experiments Committee desires to express its thanks to those proprietors, attorneys and managers, who have been good enough to place their experimental results at the disposal of the Committee, for what it is hoped may prove ultimately for the benefit of the sugar-industry of this Colony.

THIS 3RD DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

D. A. NEDD.

Plaintiff in this action claims from defendant the sum of $331 87, under an agreement entered into between them on the 7th January, 1902. Plaintiff alleges that under this agreement defendant agreed "in consideration of the plaintiff supplying the money necessary for the working of three placer claims owned by defendant, situate on the Mahdia Flat, Potaro River, that the profits arising from the working of the said placers should be divided between the plaintiff and the defendant, and the defendant, in consideration also of the plaintiff supplying money necessary for the aforesaid object, should the said working not prove remunerative, the defendant should repay to the plaintiff the amount expended by the plaintiff on such working." Plaintiff declares the said placers were duly worked and gave no returns, and the amount claimed, $331 87, is the sum expended by him on such working.

Defendant denies, in his answer to the claim, that he owes the amount claimed or that he "agreed with the plaintiff that in consideration of the plaintiff supplying the money necessary for the working of three placer claims, that should the working of them not prove remunerative, he should repay the plaintiff the amount paid by him on such working."

Plaintiff, at the hearing, alleged that he and defendant entered into a written agreement to work three placer claims belonging to the latter. This agreement was put in evidence, and is practically set out in full in the defendant's defence. The document is far from being clear in its terms, but the clause in it on which plaintiff seems to rest his claim is as follows:—

"9. It is further agreed that should this first expedition not prove remunerative, the parties are at liberty to dissolve this partnership, provided that any gold on hand not exceeding two hundred dollars shall be given to the party of the first part" (plaintiff) "as repayment of the expenses incurred by him to that extent, and his interest in the said three claims shall be fully determined, the party of the second part assuming all liabilities in connection with the labourers' wages up to the date of the dissolution of the partnership, and the payment of the balance, if any, of the amount expended by the party of the first part."

By clause 10, it is provided:—"It is further stipulated that this agreement shall continue for the period of two years or such other further period as the parties hereto may subsequently agree upon."

Plaintiff declares that he carried out his part of the agreement in furnishing labourers, provisions and tools, and went up with defendant and labourers to the Potaro. That being dissatisfied with defendant's conduct in not looking after the work as he ought to have done he spoke to the defendant. He says:—"I remained up there two weeks. I was not satisfied with what I found there. I was dissatisfied at not getting the three claims he told me of. And he would not look after the work as he ought to have done." (Defendant under the agreement was to supervise the work and along with plaintiff re-locate three placers located by the former). "I told him of my dissatisfaction. He said he thought he would have to dissolve partnership as he lay in an awkward position. He said I must take over the place. I said "no." He then said he would take it over and pay me the money I spent. He never supervised the working of one man but was always at his brother's place. During the two weeks I was there defendant did nothing to find gold, only the men stripped a pit for two weeks. In the meanwhile they were eating my provisions. I agreed that defendant should take over the whole expedition and pay me what I expended. I handed over books to him except the account book. I left the placer on the 4th February. I left it on 1st February, and this conversation took place on 1st February. And defendant saw the account book the same morning. He asked me for it. Nedd, the defendant, gave me the paper shown. It is signed by him. It is a list of tools he received from me. On 2nd page of book are Nedd's initials which he made when I gave it to him on 1st February. He crossed out an item, &c."

According to this statement there was a dissolution of the partnership but defendant denies that he made any such agreement to take over the claims and liabilities and pay plaintiff the amount he expended as alleged by the latter. His story is that fresh provisions being required, plaintiff went to town to get them, and that he and plaintiff never had any dispute up there. He explains that gold was not obtained because plaintiff wished to work "sluice" and not "tom" and that if tom had been used the work could have commenced, but that to work by sluice required a considerable time for preparation. He further explains why the list of tools was given to plaintiff and how he (defendant) came to initial the book. This explanation seems to me reasonable, and if correct, which I have no reason to doubt, is consistent with defendant's contention that the partnership instead of being dissolved on 1st February, continued after that date and after plaintiff left for Georgetown.

After plaintiff returned to Georgetown, he wrote a letter to defendant, which seems to me to show clearly that the partnership was not dissolved on the 1st February as alleged. This letter was tendered in evidence in the Georgetown Magistrate's Court, in connection with a criminal charge brought against defendant by plaintiff for causing him (plaintiff) "by certain false pretences to pay the sum of $340 00 to other persons for your (defendant's) benefit with intent to defraud."

At the close of the proceedings in the Court below, Mr. McArthur, who appeared for the complainant, applied to Mr. Moore a clerk, in the Police Magistrate's Court, for the document exhibited by complainant in the case. Being in a hurry Mr. McArthur signed a blank piece of paper as a receipt asking the clerk to fill in the list of documents and hand over the documents themselves to a person he pointed out. That person was undoubtedly the complainant in the Court below and the plaintiff in this case. The clerk instead of delivering only the documents exhibited by the complainant handed over to him also—most improperly—the documents tendered in evidence before the magistrate by the accused Nedd. Among those documents was the letter written by plaintiff to defendant, and—of course—this letter cannot now be found. Under the circumstances I allowed secondary evidence of the contents of this letter to be given by defendant's solicitor, Mr. Abraham, and by defendant himself.

The evidence in the case satisfies me that there was no dissolution of the partnership on 1st February, as alleged by the plaintiff. On his return to Georgetown he wrote defendant that he was sending up men and provisions, and he has charged the partnership with various items of expenditure incurred by him after the alleged dissolution. Again it is not probable if he made such an agreement on 1st February, as he declares, that he would, on 11th February, take out a summons against defendant for obtaining money or money's worth by false pretences. By his act in so summoning defendant he forced the latter to leave the placers and return to Georgetown, in consequence of which the labourers who had been engaged for a period of four months absconded when the provisions came to an end. One of these labourers—Augustus by name—appears to have been taken away and employed by plaintiff himself.

Now although there was no dissolution of the partnership on the 1st February, yet it is admitted by defendant in his pleadings that plaintiff did later on put an end to the agreement. This happened after defendant came to Georgetown in obedience to the summons from the Magistrate's Court. Defendant says:—"he then saw plaintiff and asked him to forward provisions to the placer but he refused to supply the provisions and put an end to the said agreement without the consent and against the will of defendant."

According to the agreement the parties were at liberty to dissolve partnership if the first expedition should prove unremunerative. Otherwise it was to last for 2 years or longer if agreed upon. There is some difficulty in construing the meaning of the term "first expedition," counsel for plaintiff contending that the expedition ended when the provisions which plaintiff had to provide were exhausted, while on behalf of defendant it is argued that the expedition ended only when the time four months for which the labourers were engaged expired. It is evident to me that the provisions plaintiff was bound to supply under the agreement would be insufficient to support ten or a dozen men, to say nothing of the parties themselves, for a period of four months, but the amount of his contribution was probably fixed to start the working and in expectation of gold being found within a short time the sale of which would enable other provisions to be purchased as required. If this be not so, then it is difficult to understand how the parties could enter into an agreement of this nature. Defendant says it was because of plaintiff insisting on working "sluice" and not "tom" that the digging for gold was delayed. Plaintiff on the other hand declares it was due to defendants neglect to supervise the labourers and look after the work.

Whatever may have been the cause, it is clear the expedition did fail and that no gold was obtained.

The agreement provides that on the expedition proving unremunerative, the parties are at liberty to dissolve the partnership. I take it that means either would be at liberty to put an end to the agreement, and that mutual consent to dissolution was not required: if that were so the clause would have been differently worded.

Paragraph 9 of the agreement provides that in case of dissolution of the partnership after the first expedition, any gold on hand, not exceeding two hundred dollars, I. E. the amount he had to contribute, shall be given to the plaintiff, and, in my opinion, that is the limit of defendant's liability to plaintiff. The balance to be paid by defendant referred to at the end of the same paragraph, can only mean that if the gold on hand does not amount to $200, defendant shall make good the difference to that extent. I cannot understand the agreement to mean that defendant is to recoup plaintiff for any expenditure he may have incurred beyond $200. In the event of there being no gold on hand, defendant would have to pay plaintiff $200.

Mr. P. N. Browne, for defendant, contended that the true construction of the agreement is, that if, after the first expedition, dissolution took place, and there was no gold on hand, plaintiff would be entitled to nothing at all, and further that the $200 contributed by plaintiff being capital, an agreement to return the capital in case the venture should prove unremunerative, while plaintiff was to share the profits, if it was successful, was illegal. In support of this last contention Lindley on partnership, 6th edition, page 45, was quoted. I can neither agree with this interpretation of paragraph 9 of the agreement nor with the learned Counsel's view as to the illegality of an agreement for the return under certain conditions of money put into a business as capital.

Here we have defendant contributing labour and plaintiff capital. Defendant has placer claims which he is unable to work and he promises plaintiff if he finds the capital for working the claims to give him half the profits and if there are no profits to return the money put in by the plaintiff to a limited amount. I can see nothing illegal in this. Defendant with plaintiff's money is able to work claims which would otherwise remain useless, and by plaintiff's means has a chance of making money; that is consideration enough to constitute a binding agreement.

While I cannot congratulate the person who drew up this agreement in his work, yet at the same time, I think it may be fairly gathered that in case of the failure of the first expedition and dissolution of the partnership, plaintiff was to be reimbursed any expenditure he may have incurred for the benefit of the partnership to the extent of $200. This charge was to be met in the first instance by any gold which might be on hand to him, and if there happened to be none by defendant.

When the partnership was dissolved there was no gold on hand, defendant must therefore pay plaintiff $200 expended by the latter according to the agreement. As to costs, plaintiff has, in my opinion, not given a true account of what took place between himself and defendant on 1st February, and the disappearance of the letter which was given to him by the Magistrate's Clerk has not been explained. Under the circumstances I allow no costs. The counter claim which was not pressed by defendant is also dismissed, but without costs.

APPLICATION FOR ACCOUNTS.

After careful consideration of this application, and on reading the affidavits in support thereof, I am of opinion that no sufficient grounds have been disclosed for making the order applied for on the defendant. Further on, reading the defence filed by the defendant to the amended statement of claim, and the affidavit put in by him, I am of opinion there is a preliminary question to be decided before such an order as that asked for should be made. Application is dismissed. Costs to be costs in the cause.

Information is also required as to means of livelihood and near relations. Two names of persons well known should be given as references by the applicants.

The attention of applicants is specially directed to the provisions of Section 4 (1) of Ordinance 21 of 1896 and Section 3 of Ordinance 19 of 1898 as to the powers of the Administrator Guardians to make regulations and give directions as to the maintenance and education of the candidates who may be nominated to fill the vacancies.

15. 9th January, 1903.

A. L. DOUGLAS.

16. 5th January, 1903.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the following Circular despatch received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies :—

Downing Street,
24th November, 1902.

Sir,—With reference to Viscount Knutsford's Circular despatch of 20th August, 1889, I have the honour to state that I have been informed by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury that where any officer who has been transferred from the Imperial Civil Service to the Civil Service of a Colony is removed from the latter service on the ground of his inability to discharge efficiently the duties of his office under the provisions of any Colonial Law similar to Sect. 2 (1) of the Superannuation Act, 1887, his claim to pension for his Imperial service may be admitted under the Pensions (Colonial service) Act, and the Superannuation Act, 1887, taken together, notwithstanding that the retirement takes place under 60 years of age. It is to be noted, however, that in the Imperial Civil Service cases dealt with under section 2 of the Superannuation Act, 1887, the officer does not as a rule receive the full amount of pension for which he would be qualified by his length of service.

2. I have to add that an officer transferred from the Imperial Service to the service of any Colony or Protectorate to which the provisions of the Superannuations Act of 1892 have been applied, can receive a pension for his Imperial service if he retires at any age at which the Regulations of the Colony permit him to retire without a medical certificate. The following is a list of the Colonies and Protectorates, the Funds of which have now been determined by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury to be Public Funds within the meaning of Section 4 of the last mentioned Act, viz.:—the Windward Islands, the Leeward Islands, all the West African Colonies and Protectorates, Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, Hong Kong, Wei-hai-Wei, Gibraltar, St. Helena, Falklands, Seychelles, British East Africa and British Central Africa. Also the fund out of which are paid the salaries of the Sergeant-Majors and Sergeants of the Jamaica Constabulary Force appointed under Jamaica Law 18 of 1895, (the Constabulary Law, 1867, Amendment Law, 1895), has been determined to be a Public Fund within the meaning of the Superannuation Act, 1892.

3. I have to explain that, in the case of the Colonies and Protectorates mentioned in the last paragraph, the amount of the pension grantable in respect of the Colonial portion of the Officer's service will not be effected by the application of the Superannuation Act, 1892, to such Colony or Protectorate, but such pensions will still be governed by the special pension rules of each Colony or Protectorate.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,
J. CHAMBERLAIN.

The Officer Administering the Government of British Guiana.

17. 3rd January, 1903.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the following Notice received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies with reference to the issue of permits to persons proposing to visit the Transvaal or Orange River Colony :—

NOTICE.

TO PERSONS INTENDING TO VISIT THE TRANSVAAL OR ORANGE RIVER COLONY.

IT is notified for information that permits to enter the Transvaal or Orange River Colony are still required, except by persons exempted in the terms of the Ordinance quoted below. Such permits are issued at all Coast Ports in British South Africa, at Bulawayo and at Lourenco Marques.

Persons about to visit the New Colonies are advised, in order to save themselves delay and disappointment, to forward their application for permits at least one week before their departure, in order that the permits may be ready for them when they land.

Applications should, in the case of British subjects, be addressed to the Permit Secretary at the intended port of disembarkation.

Foreigners should make application through their Consular representatives.

Persons proceeding via Delagoa Bay should address their applications to H.B.M. Consul General, Lourenco Marques.

Application forms are obtainable at the Colonial Office, London, at the principal South African Shipping Offices in London and Southampton, at the Bank of Africa and Standard Bank of South Africa in London, and on board the principal South African bound steamers.

The following extract from the Peace Preservation Ordinance, Transvaal, is published for information. The terms of the Peace Preservation Ordinance, Orange River Colony, Sections 19 to 23 are mutatis mutandis identical :—

"19.—After the date of this Ordinance no person shall enter this Colony without a permit granted under the terms of this Ordinance, unless—

(a) He was resident and within this Colony or the Orange River Colony on the 31st May, 1902, and has not since that date been expelled from or ordered to leave this Colony or the Orange River Colony.

(b) He has since the 31st May, 1902, and before the date of this Ordinance received a permit or other formal authorization to enter this Colony from some duly constituted authority.

(c) He is a person coming within the provisions of Article 2 of the Terms of Surrender signed at Pretoria on the 31st May, 1902, and published in the "Gazette Extraordinary," dated 3rd June, 1902.

(d) He is a person employed in His Majesty's Navy or Military Service, or in the Civil Service or in any Police Force of this Colony or the Orange River Colony.

"20.—Permits to enter the Colony under this Ordinance shall be granted by such persons as may be authorized to do so by the Governor, and shall be in such form as the Governor may direct.

No such permit shall be granted to any person who having being a Burgher of the South African Republic or the Orange Free State has not taken the Oath of Allegiance to His Majesty, or made some declaration of equivalent import in form approved by the Governor. In all other cases it shall be in the discretion of the Governor to grant or refuse any permit.

"21.—It shall be lawful for the Colonial Secretary, if he has reason to believe that any person is residing or sojourning in this Colony having entered it without proper authority, to give notice thereof to any Resident Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall thereupon summons such person to appear before him, and if such person fails to satisfy the Magistrate, that he has obtained a permit under this Ordinance or is exempt under the provisions of Section 19 from obtaining such permit, the Magistrate shall make a written order directing such person to leave the Colony within seven days, unless before the expiration of that time he has received permission in writing from the Colonial Secretary to remain in the Colony: such permission shall have the same effect as a permit granted under this Ordinance.

"22.—(1). If any person in whose case such order has been made is found within the Colony after the expiration of seven days after service of such order without having obtained permission from the Colonial Secretary as aforesaid, he may be arrested and brought before a Magistrate, and shall upon conviction be imprisoned for a period not less than one month and not more than six months and with or without a fine not exceeding £500, and in default of payment to a further term of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

(2). If any person imprisoned under the terms of the preceding sub-Section shall remain in the Colony for a period of more than seven days after the expiration of his term of imprisonment or any subsequent term of imprisonment inflicted under this Section, without obtaining permission in writing from the Colonial Secretary to remain in the Colony, he may be arrested and brought before a Magistrate, and shall on conviction be imprisoned with or without hard labour for a period of not less than six months and not more than twelve months and with or without a fine not exceeding £500 and in default of payment to a further term of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

"23.—Any person entering this Colony on a permit not issued to him by proper authority or obtained by him by any fraudulent means shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a period not exceeding two years, or to a fine not exceeding £500, or to both such imprisonment and fine."

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,
Government Secretary.

THE following Bill, which was read a first time at a meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy held on the 19th December, 1902, is published for general information.

By Command,
J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of the Court.

THE POOR RELIEF BILL, 1902.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The object of this Bill is to amend the law relating to poor relief. It is founded on the Poor Relief Ordinance, 1855, which at present governs the distribution of poor relief in this Colony, and all the provisions of the Bill not contained in that Ordinance are indicated by being put within brackets. The principle of the Bill is to put the responsibility for the administration of the poor law on the Chairman of the Poor Law Commissioners (clause 4.) The Commissary of each Fiscal District is to be entrusted, under the direction of the Poor Law Commissioners, with the distribution of relief in his district (clause 13.)

The law relating to the maintenance of relations and of bastard children which was included in the Poor Relief Ordinance, 1855, is omitted from this Bill and the subject is dealt with in two separate Bills, which will be introduced at the same time as this Bill.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO MAKE PROVISION FOR THE RELIEF OF THE POOR."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

["Board" means the Board established by Sec. 3 of this Ordinance:]

[The City of Georgetown includes Wortmanville, Lodge Village, Kitty Village, and Albouystown, and any other places which may from time to time be included in the City of Georgetown for the purposes of this Ordinance, by order of the Governor-in-Council.]

[(2.) The Commissioners and their Chairman shall be appointed by the Governor. Appointments shall be for three years, and the Commissioners may be re-appointed.]

Powers of Chairman.

[4.] The entire executive power and responsibility for the purposes of this Ordinance shall be vested in the Chairman, and all executive acts which are hereinafter directed to be done by the Commissioners or by the Board shall, unless the contrary intention appears from the context, be done by the Chairman. The Chairman shall consult the members in all matters not being mere matters of routine. At a meeting of Commissioners two, of whom the Chairman must be one, shall form a quorum.]

Actions by or against the Commissioners.

5. The Commissioners may sue and be sued by or under the style and designation of "The Poor Law Commissioners," and no action or suit which may be brought, commenced, or prosecuted by or against the Commissioners shall abate or be discontinued by the death of any of them: Provided always that the Commissioners shall be reimbursed and paid out of the funds of the Colony all damages, costs, charges, and expenses which they may be put to or become chargeable with by reason of any such action or suit, and no Commissioner shall be personally answerable or liable for the payment of the same or any part of the same.

Appointment of Officers.

[6.] There shall be a Secretary to the Board, an Inspector of the Poor for the City of Georgetown, and a Superintendent of the Alms House, and of these appointments all or any may be held by the same person. SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

THIS 5TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

In re ANTONIO VIEIRA, Junior, Insolvent

This is an application by the insolvent for his discharge. On the 14th September, 1892, the insolvent made an application for his discharge which was heard by a single Judge on the 22nd October, 1892, and by him referred to the Full Court. No time, apparently, for the hearing of the application by the Full Court was fixed and no further step was taken by the insolvent to obtain his discharge until 7th November last, when he made a second application before a single Judge, who, as the previous application had been referred for the decision of the Full Court, declined to deal with the matter and referred it to the Full Court. When the first application was made the insolvency Ordinance, 1884 was in force but that Ordinance was repealed by the Insolvency Ordinance, 1900, which contains the existing law on the subject. The effect of section 129 of the Insolvency Ordinance, 1900, is, in our opinion, that where any insolvency petition liquidation by arrangement or composition with conditions under the Insolvency Ordinance, 1884, was pending at the commencement of the Insolvency Ordinance, 1900, any proceedings thereunder are governed by the provisions of the latter Ordinance if it contains any provision relating to such proceedings but as all the provisions of the new Ordinance apply to such proceedings the provision contained in section 129 (2) (b) applies and therefore every provision relating to such proceedings must be so applied as not to affect "any right or privilege acquired or duty imposed or liability or disqualification incurred" under the Insolvency Ordinance 1884. This being so, in cases where there has been an adjudication under the Insolvency Ordinance, 1884, section 26 of the Insolvency Ordinance, 1900, must be applied to applications for discharge, so as not to affect the rights acquired by the applicants under section 25 of the Insolvency Ordinance, 1884, (cf in re Raison, 63 L. J. 709); and in effect such applications must be treated as governed by that section. In the present case it appears from the report of the Administrator (General of the 6th October, 1892, on the first application of the insolvent for his discharge and from the file of proceedings in the insolvency that the insolvent omitted to keep proper books of accounts sufficiently disclosing his business transactions and financial position and under these circumstances, had the first application been persisted in, the Court would have been bound under section 25 of the Insolvency Ordinance, 1884, either to refuse the order of discharge or to suspend its operation for a specified time or to grant the order subject to conditions as to future earnings or income or as to after acquired property. We think that an insolvent cannot acquire a better position by delaying to apply for an order of discharge: and to regard delay in making the application as any palliative of misconduct stigmatised by the law would tend to defeat the main objects of the Insolvency law, which are to preserve a high standard of commercial morality, to ensure businesslike habits, and at the same time enable the victim of misfortune to obtain without delay a fresh start in life free from the burden of his liabilities. The Court therefore cannot in the present case grant an immediate unconditional order of discharge, but under all the circumstances will suspend the operation of the order which it grants for six months from its date.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 6TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

LEGGATT, Plaintiff.

FOGEL & another, Defendants.

The plaintiff by his statement of claim (in addition to certain allegations as to a contract dated 18th October, 1901, which need not be considered, counsel having withdrawn the part of his case based thereon), alleges that it was agreed in New York in writing between him and the defendants that he should explore in this colony for lands containing precious stones and metals, that the defendants should pay him $100 a month as salary and should also pay the expenses of the exploration; that all claims located by the plaintiff should be held equally between him and the defendants; that the defendants should within a reasonable time after the return of the plaintiff furnish the capital necessary for the working and development of such mines, mining claims or properties as the plaintiff should have located or acquired, and should be entitled out of the proceeds of the operation or sale of any of such properties to the return of all moneys paid or advanced by them with interest in connection with the expedition; and that the plaintiff should not be obliged to contribute to such capital but should nevertheless be entitled to receive a one-third interest in all properties and all profits derived therefrom by the defendants. The statement of claim also alleges that the defendants duly advanced the moneys necessary for the exploration; that 24 mining claims were duly located for which claim licences are held by the plaintiff and defendants jointly; that from October, 1901, to the present time the defendants have worked and developed the said claims and extracted precious stones therefrom of the number, weight and value mentioned and have made considerable profits but have not paid any to the plaintiff and have refused, though repeatedly asked, to render any account of the working of the said claims;—and the plaintiff claims an account of the dealings of the defendants and each of them with the said claims: an account of all sums received and paid by the defendants for the prospecting expedition; and payment of the amount found to be due to him.

The whole of the agreement mentioned is not set out in any of the pleadings and the agreement itself has not been put in evidence but the statements as to it, contained in the statement of claim, are admitted by the statement of defence, with a small qualification as to the expenses of exploration which were to be paid by the defendants. Any difficulty however, which might otherwise exist in determining from the only part of the agreement of which the Court has cognizance whether a partnership was thereby created in respect of the claims located or the profits arising from the working thereof, or in respect of both claims and profits, is, in our opinion, removed by the pleadings. For the defendants in their statement of defence and counter-claim treat the agreement as creating a partnership between them and the plaintiff in respect of the claims and profits, and ask for a dissolution of that partnership, and the plaintiff by his reply and defence to the defendants' counter-claim does not contest the fact that a partnership in respect of the claims and profits was produced by the agreement but contends that the partnership which exists is a mining partnership. It is also common ground between the plaintiff and the defendants that the agreement is to be interpreted and the rights of the parties to be determined by the law of this colony.

It being established that the agreement created a partnership between the plaintiff and the defendants, the plaintiff is entitled to obtain accounts of their dealings in respect of the partnership from his co-partners, unless they can show that they are for any special reason not bound to render such accounts (Partnership Ordinance, 1900, section 30.) The defendants by their statement of defence admit their liability to account, but state that they are domiciled in New York, where the agreement was made, and the books of account and other documents, vouchers and papers in connection with the matter are in their possession in New York, and it is on these facts contended by counsel that they should not be required to account in this colony. Having regard to section 6 of the Supreme Court (Civil Procedure) Ordinance, 1901, there can, in our opinion, be no doubt as to the jurisdiction of the Court to entertain this action notwithstanding the fact that the defendants are domiciled in New York, and as the claims which are recognised by all parties as being partnership property are situated in this colony and as the agreement so far as the Court is cognisant of it, is one for the working and development of those claims, or in other words is one to be carried into effect in this colony, and as the defendants have voluntarily appeared on being served with the writ and taken the chance of a judgment in their favour (Voinet v Barrett, 55 L. J., 39), we are of opinion that although the defendants do not reside here this Court can take cognizance of the matter (dictum of M. R. in Cookney v Anderson, 31 Beav. 462), and will order the accounts to be rendered in this colony, that is within its jurisdiction. On the facts before the Court, the principal place of business of the partnership appears to be in this colony and no reason is given by the defendants for not keeping the partnership books here as required by section 26 (9) of the Partnership Ordinance, 1900, even if it be the fact (which is denied by the plaintiff) that the books, accounts and vouchers are now in New York; and the allegations in the statement of defence that the plaintiff's demand for accounts was made not on the defendants in New York but on their agents here, and that the defendants are, and have been, willing to pay the expense of the plaintiff's going to New York to inspect their accounts,—even if those allegations be taken as proved—are insufficient to disentitle him to the relief he seeks. The only other points raised by the statement of defence, namely, that no profits have been made and that the number and value of the precious stones obtained are not as alleged by the plaintiff, are matters to be determined on taking the accounts.

By their counter-claim the defendants claim a dissolution of the partnership, and in our opinion they are entitled to a dissolution. As was admitted by the plaintiff's counsel, the general rule is that the Court will not, save under exceptional circumstances, entertain an action for the taking of partnership accounts unless a dissolution of the partnership is sought. This case does not come within any of the classes of cases wherein under the ordinary law of partnership, (which was at the time this partnership was entered into and still is, the same in this colony as in England), an order for accounts will be made though a dissolution is not asked and even if according to the principle which appears to have been recognised in Bentley v Bates, 4 Y. and C. 182, and Redmayne v Forster L. R. 2 Eq. 467, the plaintiff might in this case have obtained an order for accounts without praying for a dissolution of the partnership that could not deprive the defendants of their right if the case is governed by the ordinary law of partnership, to determine the partnership at any moment by notice (Partnership Ordinance, 1900, Sect. 28), it being, so far as appears from the facts before the Court, a partnership at will (Burdon v Barkus, 4 D. F. and J. 42), and such notice, in our opinion, has been given by the defence and counter-claim, (Syers v Syers 1 App. Cas. 174). It is however, contended by the plaintiff's counsel that this partnership is a mining partnership to which sections 3 to 12 (both inclusive) of the Mining Ordinance, 1896, apply, and that the effect of section 48 (2) of the Partnership Ordinance, 1900, combined with section 11 of the Mining Ordinance, 1896, is that a mining partnership can be dissolved only on the grounds specified in the last mentioned section. We think this position cannot be maintained. The true construction of section 48 (2) of the Partnership Ordinance 1900, is, in our opinion, that the provisions of any of the sections 3 to 12 (both inclusive) of the Mining Ordinance, 1896, exclude in the case of a mining partnership, the application of the provisions of the Partnership Ordinance, 1900, so far only as such section itself provides for the subject therein dealt with, and that any incomplete provision in such section has not the effect of entirely excluding the application of the Partnership Ordinance 1900 the natural construction of the language of section 11 of the Mining Ordinance, 1896, is, that an exhaustive catalogue of the grounds for dissolution of a mining partnership, is not given thereby, but certain grounds for dissolution are created in the case of such partnerships in addition to the other legal grounds for dissolving an ordinary partnership; and any other conclusion would leave unprovided for many events (such as the death or insolvency of a partner) in which a dissolution would be practically unavoidable. Hence even if the partnership in this case be a mining partnership, (a point which it is unnecessary to decide) it could, in our opinion, be determined in the same way as any other partnership at will, and has been determined by the defence and counter-claim.

The sole question which remains is as to the sale of the partnership property. The general rule is that each partner on a dissolution of a partnership is entitled, in the absence of an agreement otherwise providing for that event, to have the partnership property sold (Burdon v Barkus 4 de G. F. and J. 42, Wild v Milne 26 Beav. 504). There is no agreement in evidence in the present case providing how the partnership property is to be dealt with on a dissolution, and section 9 of the Mining Ordinance, 1896, does not apply to such an event, being only a provision enabling a partner to convey or assign his interest without such conveyance or assignment having the effect of dissolving the partnership. A sale of the partnership property must therefore be ordered.

The Court therefore declares that the partnership between the plaintiff and the defendants must be deemed dissolved as from the date of the filing of the statement of defence and counter-claim, and orders that the usual accounts as to all partnership dealings and as including all advances made by the defendants for prospecting profits and partnership property be taken, and that the partnership property be sold by such person, and on such terms (including the date of sale) and such conditions as the parties with the approbation of a Judge or (in case the parties differ) as a Judge may determine, each party to have liberty to bid at the sale thereof, and the purchase money to be deposited in Court: liberty to be reserved to either of the parties to apply for the appointment of a Receiver. The further consideration of the action is adjourned, and the question of costs is reserved till the final order herein.

If the name of a Money Order Office is not entered by the purchaser, the Order will be payable at any Money Order Office named by the Payee.

The purchaser should keep a record of the serial number and date and name of the Office of issue of the order to facilitate inquiry if the order should be lost. In case of the miscarriage or loss of a British Postal Order, unless proof can be given to the satisfaction of the British Post Office that the name of the Payee was inserted in the order before the holder parted with it, and unless the number of the order can be furnished, the British Post Office cannot undertake to trace the order with a view to accounting for the miscarriage or loss thereof.

SEVERAL cases having of late occurred in which assaults have been committed on Overseers and Drivers on account of dissatisfaction in regard to wages or treatment, Indentured Immigrants on Estates are earnestly warned that such acts are not only entirely wrong and certain to bring punishment on those that commit them, but that such bad behaviour tends to prejudice the hearing of their grievances.

Immigrants are, therefore, reminded that should they feel dissatisfied from any cause which complaint to the Manager of their Estate fails to remove, the proper course for them to pursue is to appeal to the Immigration Agent of the District who will take steps to have the matter thoroughly investigated.

The following is a copy of section 62 of Ordinance 18 of 1893, in which is set forth the punishment to which persons render themselves liable, who commit the acts therein described :—

Section 62 of Ordinance 18 of 1893.

Every person who,—

- (1.) With intent to maim, disfigure, disable, or cause any grievous bodily harm to any person ; or
- (2.) With intent to resist or prevent the lawful apprehension or detainer of himself or of any other person, unlawfully and maliciously, by any means whatsoever, wounds or causes any grievous bodily harm to any person, shall be guilty of felony, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to penal servitude for life, and in any of the cases mentioned in sub-section (1), to whipping or flogging.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication of the following report by J. B. Harrison, Esquire, C.M.G., &c., &c, Government Analyst, and Deputy Chairman of the Board of Agriculture, on the distribution of the new varieties of sugar canes from the Board of Agriculture's experimental fields at the Botanic Gardens.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,

Government Secretary.

GOVERNMENT LABORATORY,
Georgetown, British Guiana,

14th January, 1903.

SIR,—I have the honour to report for the information of His Excellency the Governor that the distribution of new varieties of sugar canes from the Board of Agriculture's experimental fields at the Botanic Gardens was commenced on December 9th, 1902, and is now completed.

2. Six hundred and eighty-four cart-loads of sugar-canec have been delivered to the planters of the Colony during the distribution.

3. It is to be greatly regretted that in some cases little care appears to have been taken of the canes after delivery to the carts. Mr. Ward exercised every possible care during the cutting of the canes that the eyes or growing points of the canes should not be injured, but he has reported to me that in several cases the porters sent to remove the canes from the fields treated them with much roughness and doubtless caused injury to the plants. In certain cases the canes after delivery were allowed to remain on the wharves of the town agents of the estates for several or for many days before being transmitted to the estates. I myself saw canes being taken to a plantation in an estate cart nearly three weeks after they had been delivered from the fields and these canes were, more or less, dried up and covered with moulds. The managers of sugar plantations in several instances have written to me complaining about lack of care on the part of the Board's officers, but I am satisfied that these were not in default.

4. The New Colonial Company, on the other hand, adopted precautions to ensure, as far as possible, that the canes allotted to them should reach the estates in the same condition that they were delivered at the Board's cane-fields in. That Company sent to the fields an overseer with porters and supplies of barrels. The overseer selected the canes, had them cut up into suitable lengths and packed in the barrels with great care.

5. I have alluded to the foregoing points as it is disheartening to the officers in charge of the experiments to find that the canes which have been raised at the expenditure of much work, time and money apparently are, in certain cases, not considered worthy of more care than bundles of firewood usually receive.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

Re JACOB BURTON JANSEN, Insolvent

APPLICATION FOR DISCHARGE.

By section 129, of Ordinance 22 of 1884, it is enacted inter alia that (2) "the repeal effected by this Ordinance shall not affect.

(a) Anything done or suffered before the commencement of this Ordinance under any enactment repealed by this Ordinance, nor

(b) any right or privilege acquired or duty imposed or liability or disqualification incurred under any enactment so repealed; nor

(c) any fine, forfeiture or other punishment incurred in respect of any offence committed or to be committed against any enactment so repealed; nor

(d) the institution or continuance of any proceeding or other remedy whether under any enactment so repealed or otherwise, for ascertaining any such liability, or disqualification or enforcing, or recovering any such fine, forfeiture or punishment, as aforesaid.

(3.) Notwithstanding the repeal effected by this Ordinance the proceedings under any Insolvency petition or composition with creditors under Ordinance 32 of 1846, pending at the commencement of this Ordinance, shall proceed and continue, and all the provisions of the said Ordinance 32 of 1846, and of the Insolvency Ordinance 1872, shall except as aforesaid apply thereto as if this Ordinance had not been passed.

Reading this together with section 129 of the Insolvency Ordinance of 1900, I am of opinion that the discharge of a person adjudged insolvent under the Insolvency Ordinance of 1872, and now applying for his discharge should be dealt with under the provisions of this latter Ordinance.

In this case applicant was adjudged insolvent under the provisions of the Insolvency Ordinance of 1872. The Administrator General reports that there is nothing against the insolvent which would militate against his application being granted and no creditor or other person appears to oppose the same.

I grant the discharge applied for.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

MANOEL G. DE FREITAS,

versus

MARY DE BACKER and RICHARD DE BACKER, AS EXECUTRIX AND EXECUTOR TO AND OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF PHILIP DE BACKER, DECEASED.

This is a claim against the abovenamed defendants as executrix and executor to and of the last will and testament of Philip de Backer, deceased, "for a transport of the west half of the east half of lot No. 28, being part of Plantation La Penitence, situate on the east bank of the river Demerary, with all the buildings and erections thereon, except the building and shed used as a blacksmith's shop belonging to C. H. Bascom, and one other building thereon belonging to Mary de Backer, widow, or to pay the sum of $130 paid by the plaintiff to the defendant's testator during his lifetime on account of the purchase money of the said property."

In their statement of defence the defendants deny that deceased sold the property referred to in the claim for $130, or any sum whatever, or that he received $130, or any other sum from the plaintiff on account of the purchase money. They further deny "that Philip de Backer died on 24th January, 1902, after the receipt of the said sum of $130 leaving a last will and testament by which he appointed them executrix and executor thereto." They also deny further that they accepted the appointment or have acted under the said will, and they say that if Philip de Backer in his lifetime sold the property he only sold it to the plaintiff subject to a building thereon belonging to Mary de Backer, the first defendant, and subject to one other building used as a dwelling house, and a building used as a smith's shop and an out-building belonging to one C. H. Bascom, and subject to a certain agreement of lease of part of the said land entered into between the said Philip de Backer, and the said C. H. Bascom, on the 25th July, 1901, which lease is still in full force and effect.

Defendants also say that assuming they are acting as the executors under the last will and testament of Philip de Backer, plaintiff cannot claim transport of the said property without reserving all the buildings thereon belonging as aforesaid and subject to the lease in favour of Bascom.

Plaintiff admits that he bought the land without the buildings mentioned by defendants but he denies that he bought the land subject to a lease in favour of Bascom, or that the deceased Philip de Backer, ever made such a lease, and that if any such lease was made it is a forgery.

This case has been before the Court on several occasions, and at one time there appeared to be some prospect of a settlement being arrived at between the parties, but eventually they could not agree and the hearing proceeded. The case presents some peculiar features. The plaintiff, I am satisfied, bought from Mr. Neblett, solicitor, as agent of the deceased Philip de Backer, the property for which he seeks transport. The greater part of the purchase money as alleged in the claim, was paid by plaintiff to Mr. Neblett, and I have no doubt from the evidence that when the purchase was made there was no exception made as to the lease to which defendants declare the property was subject. Mr. Neblett swears that deceased gave him personal instructions to sell, and a document is produced signed by deceased, by one of the defendants Richard de Backer, and by others in which he Neblett is authorized to draw up a transport, &c. and "to appear before a judge and see the same duly passed and executed," &c. The name of a purchaser is not mentioned in this document but it is dated 2nd September, 1901, the same date on which plaintiff is alleged to have purchased the property, and on which according to a receipt put in evidence he paid part of the purchase money. The defendants deny that these instructions to transport were ever signed by the deceased, but I see no reason to doubt he did sign them, notwithstanding the fact that the evidence as to the place where he did so, that is in Neblett's office or his own house, is somewhat contradictory.

As to there being a lease on the land it appears that some time before his death, Philip de Backer prosecuted one Denny and others for forging the same. At that time transport of the property to the present plaintiff had been advertised, and was opposed by a man named Bascom, in whose favour, it was alleged, the lease had been given by deceased. The magistrate postponed the hearing of the charge of forgery until the result of the opposition suit in the Supreme Court was known. In the meanwhile Philip de Backer died, and neither the case of forgery nor the opposition suit proceeded further.

Now it is clear that the deceased knew perfectly well that transport of the property to plaintiff had been duly advertised for he appears to have been personally present in Court when the Magistrate postponed the hearing of the forgery case until decision was given in the opposition suit in the Supreme Court. No reason is given for the discontinuance of the charge of forgery, or of the opposition by Bascom.

It seems clear to me that deceased knew of the sale to plaintiff and approved of the same. He in no way repudiated the advertisement of transport or objected to it and he evidently acquiesced in the postponement of the hearing of the charge of forgery until the opposition suit was decided. If he had nothing to do with the transport surely he would have said so at the time.

And taking it as established that the sale of the property to plaintiff was made with the sanction and approval of deceased, it is further apparent that the sale must have been made without the reservation of the alleged lease, for we actually find the seller prosecuting the persons setting up the lease for forgery. It would be absurd to suppose that de Backer would sell the property subject to a lease which he declared was a forgery.

As to the liability of defendants as executors, one of them Richard de Backer, (grandson of the testator) admitted that he was executor under the will of deceased and declared that he took the will itself and exhibited it to the Administrator General. In compliance with a notice served on the defendants a document was produced purporting to be the last will and testament of Philip de Backer. As this document had not been recorded it could not be received in evidence at the time. Subsequently to the hearing however, I gave notice that I impounded the document leaving it to the parties interested to get the same recorded, which being done I would admit a certified copy, as provided by law, in evidence.

The will was duly recorded and on 16th January, the case was called and Mr. Dargan tendered the certified copy of the will in evidence. Mr. McArthur, for Mr. Ogle, objected to the document being admitted in evidence on the ground that plaintiff having closed his case it was not competent for him to put in fresh evidence, the will having been rejected at the first hearing as not having been recorded. The certified copy of the will was laid over in accordance with the directions of the Court and in my opinion was clearly admissible. To have excluded it would have been practically assisting the defendants to ignore and disobey the law. It was clearly their duty to have recorded this will, and then conduct in objecting to the certified copy being received in evidence is to say, the least of it peculiar. The learned counsel for the defence in his address to the Court commented severely on the conduct of Mr. B. C. Belmonte, who was at the time of the sale of the property clerk to Mr. Neblett, solicitor. Mr. Ogle represented Neblett to be merely a tool in the hands of Belmonte. Presuming this to be true, the learned counsel did not explain how it happened that this man Belmonte was at the hearing of this case apparently clerk to the solicitor, who, instructed him (Ogle) and that the whole of defendant's statement of defence is in the handwriting of the same individual! Counsel generally acts upon his instructions and it does appear strange that Mr. Ogle should have found it necessary to inveigh against an individual who to all intents and purposes was employed by the Solicitor for the defendants!

After careful consideration of the whole case I am of opinion that there must be judgment in favour of plaintiff as claimed with costs.

R. A. SWAN, Actg. J.

T. FARMER & CO.

versus

H. CONRAD & CO.

This is an application by the defendants for judgment of non-suit or such other order as to the Court may seem fit on the ground that the plaintiff failed to comply with an order of the Court, "to give security to the extent of $240.00, for the payment of the defendants' costs of the action, and that all further proceedings in the action be stayed until such security be given and justified."

The order of the Court dated 13th December, 1902, was that security be given within four days of the service on the plaintiffs of the order to give security.

A copy of the order of the Court according to an affidavit made by W. Vanier, clerk to Mr. Abraham, Solicitor, for the defendants, was served on plaintiffs, at 4 p.m., on 17th December, 1902.

A certificate of the Registrar, dated 29th December, 1902, certifies "that no money has been deposited in the Registry of Court by way of security, nor so far as the records of this office show, has any other form of security been given in pursuance of the order made in the above matter, on the 13th day of December, 1902, by His Honour A. V. Lucie Smith, Senior Puisne Judge."

At hearing of this application, Mr. Laurence for H. Conrad & Co. said that when the application was made (29.12.02.) the plaintiffs had not complied with the order of the Court, but that subsequently the amount had been deposited in the Registry of Court. Under these circumstances he thought the Court might not make an order non-suiting the plaintiffs but would grant costs to the defendants as they were within their right in making the application.

Mr. Dargan, for the plaintiffs, contended that the application was unnecessary, and that the Court having ordered all proceedings to be stayed until the security for costs was given it was not competent for the defendants to make an application of this nature. He pointed out that if security were not given within a certain time, the action would under Order 32 rule 5 fall to the ground, and further that to grant an order non-suiting the plaintiffs would be to reverse the order of the Court staying proceedings till security was given. He further contended that the Order and Rule (Order 40 rule 14) did not apply where plaintiff was called upon to give security for costs, and that none of the reported English cases show that the action would be dismissed where plaintiff has failed to give security for costs, but that the action would be stayed and struck off if not proceeded with. In support of this he cited the case of La Grange v. McAndrew, 4 Q B.D. p. 210.

I am of opinion that the Court having ordered security for costs to be given within a certain time, it was competent to the defendants, notwithstanding the Court's order that proceedings should be stayed until such security was given, to apply under Order 40 rule 14, as they have done. The case quoted by the learned counsel for plaintiff does not appear to me to support his argument. On the contrary it seems to strengthen the application of defendants. In that case the plaintiff was ordered to give security for costs, the action being stayed in the meantime; but he failed to do so. The defendant applied to dismiss the action for want of prosecution under Order xxix rule i:—Held that the Judge had a discretion to make an order dismissing the action, though the defendant had not abandoned the order for security for costs. This case is reported under date January 11th, 1879, and the dismissal appears to have been on the ground of want of prosecution but was virtually due to plaintiff having failed to give security.

Here the plaintiffs were ordered to give security within four days, they failed to do so, and notwithstanding the order staying proceedings until such security was given, I am of opinion that it was competent for defendants to make an application for and for the Court to make an order of non-suit if it thought right to do so. Defendants when they made the application do not appear to have known that plaintiffs intended to deposit the money later on, and it was natural they should make some attempt to prevent the case hanging over their heads until plaintiff thought fit to comply with the law, or the action became deserted and abandoned by lapse of time. To decide that an application like this could not be made, would be to sanction the idea that a party ordered to do an act within a limited period, may delay doing so as long as he likes, or at any rate until it was necessary to comply to preserve his action from becoming deserted and abandoned under the Rules of Court. As, however, the amount of the security ordered appears to have been deposited in the Registry of Court on 29th December, 1902, I refrain from making any such order as that asked for, but I consider the defendants are entitled to the costs of this application and I grant costs in their favour accordingly.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication of the following Memorandum respecting the admission of Colonial Students to the University of Oxford, prepared by the Oxford Authorities in accordance with the wishes expressed by representatives of the Colonies at a Conference recently held at the Colonial Office:—

COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

At the Conference held at the Colonial Office on July 10, 1902, a wish was expressed by representatives of the Colonies for a paper giving such information regarding the University of Oxford as would be of service to Colonial and Indian students. With this view the following Memorandum has been drawn up and placed at the disposal of the Secretary of State.

DAVID B. MONRO,
Vice-Chancellor.

COLONIAL AND INDIAN STUDENTS AT OXFORD.

A certain number of Students from the Colonies and from India already find their way annually to Oxford, some at their own charges, some with the aid of Scholarships provided by Colonial governments or in other ways. Occasionally, though not very frequently, Students of Colonial origin, either after passing through some English School, or more rarely coming directly from a Colonial School or University, obtain Scholarships at an Oxford College, but most of them enter as ordinary members.

The munificent bequest of the late Mr. Rhodes provides for the possibility, and opens up the propect, of a further steady flow of students from the Colonies to which he bequeathed his Scholarships. In view of this and to make his gift as widely beneficial to the Colonies as possible, it seems well to set out briefly what Oxford has to offer in the way of studies and Degrees, and what are the conditions under which these may be followed and obtained.

ENTRANCE TO THE UNIVERSITY.

No one can become a member of the University unless he has first been admitted a member of some College or Hall or of the Body of Non-Collegiate Students. Any person therefore desiring to gain admission to the University must first apply to the Head of some College or Hall or to the Censor of Non-Collegiate Students. He must be prepared to furnish testimonials of good conduct, and to pass an entrance examination, or produce evidence of attainment which will justify exemption from it, and to deposit a sum as Caution money, usually returnable in whole or part upon leaving. At a College this varies from £20 to £40. For Non-Collegiate Students it is £25. Application to enter a College should be made at least some months, and in the case of many Colleges, if possible, a year, before entrance is really desired. In writing to make application for admission the candidate would do well to give some account of his previous education at School or College, and of the course which he proposes to follow at Oxford. The University as such, apart from the Colleges, holds no entrance or matriculation examination.

Much useful information with regard to the University and Colleges will be found in The Student's Handbook to the University and Colleges of Oxford, price 2s. 6d., published by the Oxford University Press.

EXAMINATIONS AND DEGREES.

The degree of B.A. at Oxford is obtained by keeping residence for three academical years, each consisting of three Full Terms† of eight weeks, and by passing three examinations—namely, (1) Responsions, (2) an intermediate, and (3) a final Examination.

Responsions is a Pass Examination obligatory on all students. It may be passed before entering upon residence.

The intermediate Examination includes (a) an Examination in Holy Scripture (part of the New Testament being offered in the original Greek), an Honours Examination (b) in Classics and (c) in Mathematics, (d) a Pass Examination in Classics (with either Logic or Mathematics) and a Preliminary examination, (e) in Jurisprudence and (f) in certain branches of Natural Science.

Students must pass in Holy Scripture (or if they object on religious grounds, in an equivalent Greek book) and must either (1) obtain Honours in Classics or (2) pass in Classics or (3) obtain Honours in Mathematics or (4) pass a Preliminary Examination. The two last alternatives are only open under certain conditions to students who have passed in an Additional Subject in Responsions and afterwards obtain Honours in the final Examination.

In the final or 'Second Public Examination,' also an option is given between an Honour and a Pass course. Honours may be obtained in the following:—

1. Litteræ Humaniores, that is, Classical scholarship, Ancient History, Philosophy (largely ancient), and Logic; the set books being mainly Greek and Latin.
2. Mathematics.
3. Natural Science (with separate examinations in several different branches).
4. Law.
5. Modern History.
6. Theology.
7. Oriental Studies (Sanskrit, Arabic, Hebrew, Persian).
8. English Language and Literature.

Students who obtain Honours in any one of these examinations are entitled to the Degree of B.A.

The Pass course includes the subjects of Ancient Philosophy, Ancient History, French, German, Sanskrit, Persian, Modern History (English, European and Indian), Political Economy, Law, Geometry, Mechanics, Natural Science (Physics), Chemistry, Physiology, Zoology, Botany, Divinity.

In these subjects there are separate examinations, three of which—chosen under certain limitations—must be passed to entitle to the Degree of B.A.

* Kettle College receives no Caution money, but requires payment in advance instead.

§ The Handbook can be purchased in Oxford at the Depot of the Clarendon Press, 116, High Street; in London at the University Press Warehouse, Amen Corner; in New York at 91 & 93, Fifth Avenue; and in Melbourne at Messrs. Melville & Mullen, 232 & 264 Collins Street.

† The Summer Full Term is made up of parts of two Academical Terms, and in the language of the University reckoned as two, so that the three years contain nine "Full Terms," or twelve Academical Terms.

The details of all these examinations are to be found set out in The Examination Statutes, price 1s., or in the Student's Handbook previously referred to.

EXPENSES.

University Charges.

The lectures of the University Professors are as a rule open to all members of the University without any charge. There is also no charge for the use of University Institutions, such as the University Library (the Bodleian) and the University Galleries. For the use of the Scientific Laboratories, and for instruction in them, fees are charged, in many cases, amounting to £4 or £5 a Term.

The fees to the University are—

At entrance, £2 10s.

For examinations about £6 in all.

Besides these there are dues to the University of £2 a year, amounting to £6 for three years.

The degree fee for a Bachelor of Arts is £7 10s., so that the whole payments to the University, exclusive of those to the student's College, amount by the time this degree is taken to about £22.

College Charges.

Most Colleges charge an Admission Fee at entrance varying from £1 to £5. They also charge tuition fees to Under-graduate members studying in the ordinary way. These vary a little in amount, but are usually from £7 to £9 a Term or £21 to £27 per annum. College tuition is sufficient for most students, and a diligent man seldom requires nowadays any special extra "private tuition." For post-graduate students the fees are usually very small. The average expenses of an under-graduate at a College or Hall, residing within the walls, and living the ordinary life of the place, may be taken as amounting to from £100 to £200 per annum; and for a Non-Collegiate Student, to from £50 to £60. These figures represent a residence of twenty-four to twenty-five weeks, or somewhat less than half the year. They include charges for board and lodging and all ordinary College Fees for Tuition, use of College Library, &c., but not for travelling, clothes, books, &c. It is obvious that the cost of living during University residence as well as for the rest of the year must depend on the habits and tastes of the student, but it would not be safe to calculate this last at less than £2 a week, or at least £50 for the half year, if the student is to keep himself entirely and has no friends to go to.

COLONIAL AND INDIAN UNIVERSITIES.

Students belonging to Colonial or Indian Universities may obtain, if their University avails itself of the Statute on Colonial and Indian Universities, and places itself in certain relations to the University of Oxford, the following privileges:—

A. If they have pursued, at their own University, a course of study extending over two years, taking all the examinations incident to it, they are exempt from passing Responsions, and if they take Honours at Oxford, are allowed to obtain a degree after keeping only eight Terms (i.e. two years) at Oxford, or if they do not take Honours, but only the ordinary Pass examination, then to obtain the same degree after keeping twelve Terms (i.e. three years) at Oxford.

B. If they have pursued, at their own University, a course extending over three full years, and obtained Final Honours there (when and as defined by the Convocation of the University of Oxford), they are exempt from passing Responsions and also the intermediate (called First Public Examination and Preliminary Examinations); and if, but only if, they take Honours in the Final Examination at Oxford, then they may obtain the Degree of Bachelor of Arts after keeping only eight terms (i.e. two years) at Oxford.

The Colonial and Indian Universities which have placed themselves under this system and can claim privileges for their students, are up to the present, in the order of their admission, the following:—

The Universities of the Cape of Good Hope, Sydney, Calcutta, the Punjab, Bombay, Adelaide, Madras, Melbourne, New Zealand, Allahabad, Toronto, Montreal (McGill), Tasmania, New Brunswick.

Persons who do not fulfil these conditions are subject to the ordinary regulations for English students.

POST-GRADUATE STUDY AND HIGHER DEGREES.

Besides the Degree of Bachelor of Arts and of Master of Arts, which is obtainable after a further period and upon further payments, there are the following more advanced Degrees:—

- Bachelor and Doctor of Divinity.
- Bachelor and Doctor of Civil Law.
- Bachelor and Doctor of Medicine.
- Bachelor and Master of Surgery.
- Bachelor and Doctor of Letters.
- Bachelor and Doctor of Science.

The Degrees in Divinity are open only to persons already Masters of Arts and in Holy Orders of the Church of England: those in Medicine only to persons already Bachelors of Arts. The Degrees in Civil Law, Letters and Science, are open to other persons also as hereinafter described.

The Degrees in Divinity are obtained by submitting Theses to the Regius Professor.

For the Degree of Bachelor of Civil Law there is an Examination with Honours.

The Degree of Bachelor of Civil Law is also open by this same Examination to candidates who have not taken the Degree of B.A. of Oxford, but having obtained the age of 21 and having obtained a Degree in Arts in some other University, can show that they have received a good general education and are qualified to pursue an advanced course of legal study.

The Degree of Doctor of Civil Law is open to candidates who have spent five years in the study of Civil Law, from the time of taking the Degree of B.C.L. It is obtained by submitting a Dissertation to the Board of the Faculty of Law.

For the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine there are two Examinations.

The Degree of Doctor of Medicine is obtained by submitting a Dissertation to the Regius Professor and certain qualified assessors.

Besides these professional Degrees there are also the Degrees of Bachelor and Doctor of Letters, and Bachelor and Doctor of Science. These, it should be noticed, are open, not only to members of the University who have obtained the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, but to any persons being over the age of 21 years, who can satisfy the University that they have received a good general education and that they are fitted to pursue a special line of study or research.

Subject to these two conditions being satisfied, these Degrees may be obtained by advanced work of demonstrable merit in almost any branch of knowledge, together with residence for eight Terms, which may be kept partly in vacation. Opportunities for instruction and for the prosecution of advanced work are afforded in Classics, Philology, Philosophy, History (Ancient and Modern), Geography, Economics, Theology, Law, Mathematics, Natural Science, Medicine, Education, Oriental Languages, and English Language and Literature.

The Degrees of Doctor of Letters and Doctor of Science may be obtained by any Bachelor of Letters, or Bachelor of Science, or Master of Arts, by submitting published papers or books containing an original contribution to the advancement of learning or Science, to the Boards of Faculties and Studies to which the subjects severally belong.

With regard to the Degrees in Divinity, Law and Medicine, it should be noted that the University only provides teaching in the theoretical and scientific portions of these studies, and does not attempt to supply such practical training and experience as can only be obtained in the case of Divinity either at a Theological College or by actual work under a Clergyman in a parish, in the case of Medicine in a large Hospital, in London, or some other large centre, and in the case of Law in a Barrister's Chambers and in the Courts.

MUSICAL DEGREES.

The Degrees of Bachelor and Doctor of Music stand on a different footing from the others, inasmuch as they can be obtained without residence, and without a knowledge of Latin or Greek, candidates being required to pass in any two of the following languages, Greek, Latin, French, German and Italian, and in certain examinations in Music.

DIPLOMAS.

The University also awards, under certain conditions, Diplomas in Public Health, in Education, and in Geography.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

Lectures and a certain amount of Teaching are provided by the University in French, German, Italian, Spanish and Russian, at moderate fees, not more than £2 a Term.

UNIVERSITY GAZETTE.

The University Gazette, which contains current official information about the University and Colleges, can be obtained from the University Press, or through the same agents as the Student's Handbook. Notices relating to Colonial Universities can be inserted in it by the leave of the Vice-Chancellor.

WOMEN STUDENTS.

N.B.—The above memorandum refers only to male students, who alone can become members of the University. HALL OF THE COURT OF POLICY,
Georgetown, Demerara,
6th February, 1903.

THE following Bills, which were read a first time at a meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy, on the 19th December, 1902, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,
J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of the Court.

THE MAINTENANCE BILL, 1903.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The object of this Bill is to provide for the maintenance of poor persons and children by relatives able to support, or assist in supporting them. At present the law on this subject is contained in the Poor Relief Ordinance, 1855, but as it is proposed to repeal that Ordinance and enact another in its place, opportunity is taken to deal with the subject in a separate Bill. Under the Poor Relief Ordinance, 1855, persons liable to maintain their children or parents, can only be compelled to do so if such children or parents are in receipt of poor relief, and then only under proceedings taken by the Guardians. It is proposed in this Bill to enable such parents or children to get an order of maintenance from the Magistrate, without the intervention of the Guardians, and thus to avoid the necessity of applying for poor relief. Provision is also made for enabling the Poor Law Commissioners to compel persons to support relatives who are in receipt of poor relief, as at present. Power is also proposed to be given to compel persons, able to do so, to contribute towards the maintenance of their relatives in any asylum, hospital, or other government institution.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF CHILDREN AND OTHER PERSONS BY THEIR PARENTS OR OTHER RELATIVES."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

1. This Ordinance may be cited as "The Maintenance Short title. Ordinance, 1903."

2. Every man is hereby required to maintain—

- (1.) His own children; and also
- (2.) Every child, whether born in wedlock or not, which his wife may have living at the time of her marriage with him; and also
- (3.) If he cohabits with any woman, every child which such woman may have living at the time of the commencement of such cohabitation; and also

Duty of man to maintain certain children.

- (4.) The legitimate children of any child that his wife may have by him during his marriage, or of any child of which he may have been duly adjudged to be the father under any Ordinance for the time being in force for the maintenance of illegitimate children, in the event of the parents of such children failing to maintain them, until such children attain the age of fourteen years, or longer if they are by reason of bodily or mental infirmity, unable to maintain themselves.

Duty of woman to maintain certain children.

3. Every widow and unmarried woman is hereby required to maintain her own children, legitimate or illegitimate; and every woman having any children which any man is primarily bound, under the provisions of the last preceding section, to maintain, is hereby required to maintain such children in the event of such man failing to perform his obligation; and every woman is hereby required to maintain the legitimate children of any child that she may have had, in the event of the parents of such children and of any man primarily bound, under the provisions of the last preceding section, to maintain such children failing to do so, so long as such children respectively are under the age of fourteen years, or by reason of bodily or mental infirmity, unable to maintain themselves.

Duty of child to maintain parents, etc

4. Every person born in wedlock is hereby required to maintain his or her father and mother, grandfathers and grandmothers; and every person not born in wedlock is hereby required to maintain his or her mother, and also the man, if any, with whom his mother openly cohabited at the time of his or her birth, provided that such man recognized and treated such person as his child during his or her infancy, in case such father or mother or other person as aforesaid, or all or any of such persons are, by reason of old age or bodily or mental infirmity, unable to maintain himself, herself or themselves.

Mode of compelling performance of duties imposed by the Ordinance.

5.—(1.) Any person entitled to be maintained by any other person or persons under this Ordinance, and any person having the actual care and custody of any child so entitled, may, in case the person or persons by whom such first mentioned person or such child is entitled to be maintained, or some or one of them, shall fail to maintain such person or child, make a complaint before a Magistrate, who shall thereupon inquire into the case, and if it appears to him that the complainant, or the child on whose behalf the complaint is made, is entitled to be maintained by the person or persons complained against, and that such person or persons has or have neglected to comply with the requirements of this Ordinance, he shall summon such last mentioned person or persons to appear before him, at a time and place to be mentioned in such summonses, to answer the matter of such complaint.

(2.) In case any person, entitled under this Ordinance to be maintained by some other person or persons, becomes chargeable to the Poor Law Commissioners, such Commissioners or a Commissary of Taxation may make complaint before a Magistrate on behalf of the person relieved; and thereupon the Magistrate shall proceed in the same way as if such last mentioned person had himself made such complaint.

6. At the time and place mentioned in the summons, the Magistrate shall proceed to inquire into the case; and if he is satisfied that the party complaining, or on whose behalf complaint is made as aforesaid, is entitled, under this Ordinance, to be maintained by the party or parties complained against, and that such party or parties has or have neglected his or their duty in that respect, he shall proceed to inquire into the means of the party or parties complained against, and if he is satisfied that he or they or any of them is or are of ability to maintain or contribute to the maintenance of the party complaining or on whose behalf complaint is made as aforesaid, the Magistrate shall proceed to make an order (to be called an order of maintenance) against such party or parties, ordering him or them to pay, either to the party complaining or to some person approved by the Magistrate and to be named in the order, such periodical sum as, having regard to the means of the party or parties complained against and all the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate thinks just: Provided always that no person shall be entitled to receive more in the aggregate than two dollars a week from any person or persons required by this Ordinance to maintain him: Provided also that if the complaint has been made, under sub-section 2 of the last preceding section, by the Poor Law Commissioners or a Commissary of Taxation, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate, in the said order, if he sees fit, to order the party or parties complained against to pay to some person to be named in the order, beyond the periodical sum aforesaid, a sum not exceeding two dollars a week for every week that such Commissioners or Commissary have given relief, and not exceeding the amount of the relief given.

Proceedings on hearing of complaint.

7. Any order of maintenance made under this Ordinance shall, in the case of a child, be deemed to be in force until such child attains the age of fourteen years, and, in the case of any other person, for such period as may be named in the order: Provided always that any such order may be renewed at any time by any Magistrate having jurisdiction to make an order: Provided also that, where the person to be maintained is unable to maintain himself by reason of old age or by reason of an illness or infirmity which is likely to be permanent, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to make the order of maintenance for the rest of the natural life of such person.

Limitation of time for operation of order of maintenance.

8. Any person on whom any order has been made under this Ordinance may at any time apply to any Magistrate having jurisdiction to make such an order, to cancel the same; and if he satisfies the Magistrate, on due inquiry, that he has ceased to be of ability to maintain or contribute, or that the person whom by such order cases.

he was ordered to maintain is no longer unable as aforesaid to maintain himself, the Magistrate shall cancel the said order.

Burden of proof as to power of child to maintain himself.

9. For the purposes of this Ordinance, every child under fourteen years of age shall be deemed unable to maintain himself by reason of tender years, unless the contrary is shown.

Punishment of husband deserting, his wife, etc.

10.—(1.) If any man, without just cause, deserts his wife so that such wife becomes or is likely to become destitute, or if any person by this Ordinance required to maintain any other person departs from his usual place of abode with a view to evade any liability for any maintenance as aforesaid, or for any payments which he may have been ordered to make for the maintenance of any other person as aforesaid, every such man or person shall be guilty of an offence, and, being convicted thereof, on complaint of his wife or the Poor Law Commissioners, or a Commissary of Taxation, or of any person entitled under the provisions of this Ordinance to make a complaint as aforesaid, or of any police or other constable, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three months.

(2.) Any salary, wages, or debts due to such man or person shall be liable to satisfy the arrears of any payments which may have been ordered to be made under the provisions of this Ordinance, and may be attached, and required to be paid to the person entitled under the order to receive the same, under the order of the Magistrate before whom such man or person has been tried.

(3.) The provisions of section 6 of the Evidence Ordinance, 1893, Amendment Ordinance, 1900, shall apply to any complaint made under this section.

Poor Law Commissioners may enforce payment for maintenance of persons in Lunatic Asylums, hospitals, etc.

11. In case any person entitled under this Ordinance to be maintained by any other person or persons is a patient in a lunatic asylum, or leper asylum, or hospital, or is an inmate of an alms house or orphanage, or is a child in a reformatory or industrial school, such asylum, hospital, alms house, orphanage, reformatory, or industrial school being provided or maintained by the Government out of public moneys, the Poor Law Commissioners or a Commissary of Taxation may make complaint before a magistrate who shall thereupon inquire into the case, and if it appears to him that such first-mentioned person is entitled to be maintained by any person or persons under the Ordinance, he shall summon such last mentioned person or persons to appear before him at a time and place to be mentioned in such summons, to show cause why he or they should not contribute towards the maintenance of such first mentioned person.

or any of them, is or are of sufficient ability to maintain or contribute towards the maintenance of the person in respect of whom the complaint is made, the Magistrate shall proceed to make an order against such party or parties ordering him or them to pay to the Poor Law Commissioners or a Commissary of Taxation such periodical sum as having regard to the means of the party or parties complained against, and all the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate thinks just, not exceeding the sum of two dollars a week, and such further sum not exceeding the sum of two dollars a week for every week that the person in respect of whom the complaint was made, has been in the lunatic asylum, hospital, alms house, orphanage, reformatory or industrial school as aforesaid, Provided as follows :—

(1.) That no payments shall be recoverable under such order Proviso. for any period after the person in respect of whom it has been made, has died, or has been discharged from such asylum, hospital, alms house, orphanage, reformatory, or industrial school as aforesaid.

(2.) That in case the person against whom an order is made under this section has previously had an order made against him under Section 6 of this Ordinance in respect of the same person, such last mentioned order shall not be enforced so long as the order made under this section is enforceable.

(3.) That no order shall be made under Section 6 of this Ordinance so long as any order under this section remains in force in respect of the same person.

13.—(1.) Any order made under this Ordinance may from time to time be enforced, if the payments required by it to be made, or any of them, is or are in arrear, by distress, in the manner prescribed in Part IV of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance 1893. Enforcement of order.

5. No order for the maintenance and education or for contribution towards the relief of any such child made in pursuance of this Ordinance, shall, except for the purpose of recovering money previously due under such order, be of any force or validity after the child in respect of whom it was made has attained the age of fourteen years, or after the death of such child: Provided that the Magistrate may, at any time after the making of the order, direct that the payment to be made under it in respect of the child shall continue until the child attains the age of sixteen years, in which case such order shall be in force until that period.

Provisions relating to payment of money
under order, and custody of child.

6.—(1.) All money payable under any order as aforesaid shall be due and payable to the mother of the bastard child in respect of such time and so long as she lives and is of sound mind and is not in any prison, or is not proved to be a person unfit to have the custody of her child.

(2.) At any time, and from time to time, during the continuance of any such order, the Magistrate may, for sufficient cause, and on such terms as he may think fit, increase or reduce the amount payable under such order, provided that in no case shall the amount payable under any such order be more than two dollars a week.

(3.) After the death of the mother of the child, or whilst such mother is of unsound mind or confined in any prison, or is proved to be a person unfit to have the custody of her child, the Magistrate may, if he sees fit, by order under his hand, from time to time, appoint some person, with the consent of such person, to have the custody of such bastard child.

(4.) The Magistrate may at any time revoke the appointment of such person, and may appoint another person in his stead; and every person so appointed to have the custody of a bastard child shall be empowered to make application for the recovery of all payments becoming due under any such order as aforesaid in the same manner as the mother of such bastard child might have done.

(5.) Upon the making of any order of appointment or revocation of appointment under this section, the Magistrate may order the bastard child to be delivered by any person or persons to the person appointed to have the custody thereof as aforesaid.

Punishment of woman neglecting to maintain her bastard child.

7.—(1.) Every woman neglecting to maintain her illegitimate child, being able wholly or in part to maintain it, shall be punishable as an idle and disorderly person; and every woman so neglecting to maintain her illegitimate child, after having been once before convicted of such offence, and every woman deserting her illegitimate child, shall be punishable as a rogue and vagabond.

(2.) Every person punishable under this section shall be punished according to the provisions of Part V of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, or of any other statute for the time being in force awarding punishment to idle and disorderly persons and to rogues and vagabonds.

8. Every person having the custody of any bastard child under any order of a Magistrate as hereinbefore provided, who—

Punishment of guardian misapplying moneys, etc.

- (1.) Misapplies moneys paid by the putative father for the support of such child ; or
- (2.) Withholds proper nourishment from such child ; or
- (3.) Otherwise abuses or maltreats such child, shall be guilty of an offence, and being convicted thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three months.

9. When a bastard child becomes chargeable to the Poor Law Commissioners, such Commissioners or a Commissary of Taxation may apply to the Magistrate of the district in which such child resides, and thereupon such Magistrate shall issue his summons to the man alleged to be the father of the child to appear before such Magistrate, at a time and place to be mentioned in such summons, to show cause why an order should not be made upon him to contribute towards the relief of the child.

When bastard child becomes chargeable to Poor Law Commissioners, father may be summoned.

10. On the appearance of the person so summoned, or on proof that the summons was duly served on such person, or left at his last place of abode, seven days at least before the hearing, the Magistrate shall hear the evidence of the mother, and such other evidence as she or the said Poor Law Commissioners or Commissary of Taxation may produce, and shall also hear any evidence tendered by or on behalf of the person alleged to be the father, and, subject to the provisions of sub-section 2 of section 54 of the Evidence Ordinance, 1893, the Magistrate may adjudge the person summoned to be the putative father of such bastard child ; and he may proceed to make an order upon such putative father to pay to the said Poor Law Commissioners or Commissary of Taxation such sum, weekly or otherwise, towards the relief of the child, during such time as the child shall continue or afterwards be chargeable, as shall appear to him to be proper, and any payment so ordered shall be recoverable by distress in manner provided by Part IV. of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893 : Provided as follows :

Father may be compelled to contribute towards relief of bastard child.

(1.) That no payment shall be recoverable under such order except in respect of the time during which the child is actually in receipt of relief ;

(2.) That an order under this section shall not be made, and, if made, shall cease except for the recovery of arrears, when the mother of the child has obtained an order under this Ordinance ;

(3.) That nothing in this section shall be deemed to relieve the mother of a bastard child from her liability to maintain such child;

(4.) That, if after an order has been made under this section the mother should apply for an order under this Ordinance, the order made under this section shall be primâ facie evidence that the man upon whom the order is made is the father of the child.

(5.) At any time, and from time to time, during the continuance of any such order, the Magistrate may, for sufficient cause, and on such terms as he may think fit, increase or reduce the amount payable under such order.

Enforcement of order and procedure.

11.—(1.) Any order made under this Ordinance may from time to time be enforced, if the payments required by it to be made, or any of them, is or are in arrear, by distress, in the manner prescribed in Part IV of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893.

(2.) Except as is otherwise provided for by this Ordinance, all proceedings under this Ordinance shall be as nearly as may be according to the procedure under the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893.

(3.) The forms contained in the Second Schedule to the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, may with such variations and additions as the circumstances of the particular case may require, be used in proceedings under this Ordinance, and when so used, shall be good and sufficient in law.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

COURT FOR CROWN CASES RESERVED.

THIS 26TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1903.

R.

versus

SUNKER.

It appears from the case stated for the consideration of the Court that one John Williams, a witness, refreshed his memory by a copy of a certificate of the results of his analysis, which copy he stated had been made by himself after the certificate was made and not long before the trial. The learned Chief Justice states that he was satisfied that the witness could swear as to all the facts from his recollection, although as to the date of the analysis his memory had to be refreshed, and although the copy was made some weeks after the event that the facts were few in number and simple in character and might reasonably be supposed to have been fresh in his memory at the time. The question for the decision of the Court is whether under such circumstances the evidence given by John Williams, was inadmissible owing to the means by which he refreshed his memory.

The law as laid down in the cases commencing from Doe d. Church v Perkins, 3 T. R. 749, is that a witness may refresh his memory if he can afterwards swear to the facts from his own recollection, yet if he cannot swear to the fact from recollection any further than as finding it entered in a book or paper, the original book or paper must be produced. Where the witness after refreshing his memory, swears to a fact it is a statement independent of the book or paper from which he has refreshed his memory and the book or paper is not used as evidence per se, in fact, the document so used may itself be inadmissible in evidence (Rambert v. Cohen 4 Esp. 215 Maughan v. Hubbard 2, M. and Ky 5). From the case stated by the learned Chief Justice, it appears that the witness swore to all the facts from his recollection, although as to the date of the analysis his memory had to be refreshed. The witness after refreshing his memory swore as to the date and other facts, and this was a statement independent of the paper by which he had refreshed his memory (Maughan v Hubbard).

As to whether a witness can refresh his memory from a copy of the original book or paper there seems some doubt. In Jones v. Stroud, 2 C. and P. 196, a witness was not allowed to refresh his memory with a copy although the original was stated to have become illegible, but in the later case of Burton v. Plummer, 2 A. and E. 341, a clerk was allowed to use the entries in the ledger to refresh his memory although the waste book was not produced nor its absence accounted for. In the present case the copy was made by the witness himself, and in this respect the case is stronger than Burton v. Plummer. In R. v. Dexter, 19, C. C. C., 360, Grantham, J. refused to state a case as to the admissibility of evidence by a solicitor who was allowed to look at his own account of his interviews with the prisoners dictated by him to a shorthand writer and by him written in longhand shortly after the interview took place. He stated if the witness had wished to avoid all questions he could have looked at the shorthand writer's notes the moment before he got into the witness box, and if he could testify to the accuracy of the statements therein made, it would be the height of folly to compel him to give less accurate evidence than he could otherwise give if permitted to refresh his memory. In this case the witness Williams, testified as to the accuracy of the date and other facts.

Objection might possibly have been taken to his looking at the paper, but no such objection was taken. After having looked at the paper without objection the witness testifies to the fact from his own recollection and the evidence was therefore the testimony of the witness himself, and not of the paper, and could not be withheld from the jury.

All cases of this kind must be governed by their own peculiar circumstances (Taylor 1,407), and for the reasons given, we consider the evidence given by John Williams, was admissible.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 3RD DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1903.

In re Estate of NG-A-KWANG.

This is an application on behalf of the executors of the will of one Ng-a-Kwang for an extension of the period fixed by sect. 13 (1) of the Estate Duty Ordinance, 1898, for making the inventory and declaration therein mentioned.

As intimated at the hearing the only point requiring consideration is whether the application having been made after the expiration of the period fixed by the Ordinance the Court has power under sub-section (3) of the same section to extend the period. The Court is satisfied on the facts before it that the delay which has occurred in making the inventory and declaration was practically speaking unavoidable, and that good cause is shown for extending the period, if an extension can now be granted.

The question whether the power to extend the period of time, fixed by the Ordinance must be exercised within that period can be determined only by the provisions of the Ordinance conferring the power. By the Ordinance a period is fixed within which certain acts must be done (sect. 13) and power is given to the Court in a proper case to extend that period, but it is enacted (sect. 17 repealed and re-enacted with additions Ord. 38 of 1902, sect. 2) that if the prescribed acts be not done within the prescribed period, the defaulting party shall become liable to double duty, which may be recovered by the Receiver General for the benefit of the Colony. If, therefore the period fixed by section 13 expires, not having been extended before the date fixed for its expiry, a liability with its corresponding right at once vests, and no power is conferred on the court by any subsequent order extending the period to discharge this liability and take away this vested right.

We think, therefore, the court has no power to extend the time fixed by the Ordinance after that time has expired, and this opinion is in accordance with the ordinary meaning of the word "extend," and with the ratio decidendi in Lord Huntingtower v Sherborn 5 Beav. 380.

The facts that in the present case the delay in complying with the requirements of sect. 13 has been apparently unavoidable and that the applicant seems to have acted in good faith throughout the matter cannot affect the construction to be placed on the Ordinance, though they might furnish grounds for consideration of the proper authority in determining whether to enforce any liability incurred under sect. 17.

The motion is dismissed with costs.

WILSON, Plaintiff,

versus

PAYNE, WILLIAMS AND SPROSTONS, LIMITED, Defendants.

The plaintiff in this action claims from the defendants jointly and severally, the delivery of two parcels of raw gold, one being 76 ozs. 6 dwts, in quantity and the other 347 ozs. 4 dwts, or payment of the total value of the gold in dispute amounting to the sum of $7,030 10. In support of his claim, he alleges that the gold was unlawfully obtained by the defendants, Payne and Williams, from a certain claim on Tiger Creek, of which he is and was at the time such gold was won, the lawful holder under the Mining Laws; that such gold was unlawfully and in contravention of the Mining Laws, sold and delivered to and purchased by the defendants, Sprostons, Limited; and that demand for the delivery up of the gold had without effect been made on all the defendants.

The defendants, Payne and Williams, by their statement of defence deny all and every of the allegations made by the plaintiff, and the defendants, Sprostons, Limited, by their statement of defence while not admitting the several allegations contained in the statement of claim plead that even if the several facts stated by the plaintiff are proved, he was not and is not the lawful holder of the claim whence he alleges the gold was extracted, the lawful holders thereof being one George Robertson Harrison and the heirs of one George Murray; that the gold was purchased by them as licensed traders in gold in market overt without notice of any fraud or irregularity and for full value; that the plaintiff never had any possession of or right of property in the gold and has no cause of action against them; and that in any event they are entitled to be repaid all disbursements and expenses made and incurred on account thereof.

There is no evidence sufficient to connect Payne and Williams or either of them with the parcel of gold consisting of 76 oz. 6 dwts. The manager of the shop of Sprostons, Limited, at Five Star Landing, in his evidence states that he bought this gold from one Liverpool, and that it consisted of a nugget weighing 61 ozs. and some fine gold of ordinary quality; there is no evidence that Payne and Williams, or either of them ever delivered to Liverpool, or to any one for him, gold corresponding in quantity or description with that sold by him; and the facts (if they be taken as proved) that Payne and Williams had some dealings with Liverpool, in respect of gold and that they had large sums of money in their possession in no wise justifies the inference that such sums were obtained from the sale by Liverpool of this gold. It is unnecessary, therefore, to refer to this parcel any further in this judgment.

But the possession of the larger parcel consisting of 347 oz. 4 dwts. by the defendants Payne and Williams, and the sale of it by them, are admitted in the evidence given by those defendants, who, however, state that that gold was lawfully obtained by them from the claim of one Yearwood, who permitted them to work on his claim, and entered the gold in the register of gold found on his claim.

In order that the plaintiff might succeed in this action, so far as it relates to this larger parcel of gold, it was necessary that he should prove (among other things) that this gold was found on the claim specified by him, and that he was at the time the gold was won the lawful holder of the claim, and that the case came within Regulation 11 of the Amended Mining Regulations, 1899.

We have carefully analysed, compared and considered the evidence before the Court, and are of opinion that it is not proved that the gold was found on the claim specified by the plaintiff. In view of the fact that there is another action pending which relates to the same gold, we refrain from giving in detail the results of our analysis and comparison of the evidence of the several witnesses for the plaintiff and for the defence. We may, however, remark that it appears to us (as indeed was admitted by the plaintiff's counsel) that the plaintiff's case in this particular in substance rests not on direct testimony as to the place where the gold was found, but on circumstantial evidence; that (even if the evidence for the defendants Payne and Williams be disregarded) in order to prove by circumstantial evidence that the gold was found on the spot specified it was necessary to prove facts which not only showed that the obtaining the gold from the spot specified was reasonably probable, but also which precluded its being reasonably possible that it was obtained from some other claim; and that having regard to the vagueness and generality of much of the evidence on those points which are of much importance in a case of this kind; to the improbability of many of the statements made by the witnesses, and the irreconcilable conflict in many particulars between the testimony of several witnesses, we think (even apart from the consideration of the reliability of some of the witnesses, whose testimony is from their demeanour in the witness box and other circumstances open to grave doubt), that such facts have not been established in this case. The plaintiff's action must therefore be dismissed, and it is unnecessary to consider the evidence on the points requiring proof other than the one already dealt with.

The sole question remaining for consideration is that of costs. It may have been the case, as urged by counsel for the defendants, Payne and Williams, that the witnesses called by the defendants, Sprostons, Limited, were put forward really, though not ostensibly, to support one part of the plaintiff's case for the benefit of some person not a party to the action; but if this be so, the plaintiff, having acquiesced in and taken advantage of this, cannot complain if the additional costs caused by the putting in of this evidence fall upon him. The costs, however, caused by the prolonged cross-examination of the witnesses for the defendants, Payne and Williams by the defendants, Sprotons, Limited, which prolonged cross-examination was not necessary having regard to the issues raised by their pleadings, and was practically admitted by counsel not to be required for the purposes of their defence, must in our opinion be borne by them, the plaintiff having gained no benefit therefrom not obtainable from the cross-examination by his own counsel. As remarked by North, J., on the subject of the apportionment of costs in the case of Corporation of Bradford v. Pickles (1894), 3 Ch. 71, so in the present case it would be impossible for the taxing officer to distinguish or apportion the costs with any approach to accuracy, and having heard the case the Court can deal with that question much better itself. The plaintiff must pay all the costs of all parties, except the costs for one day out of the time occupied by the trial, the costs of all parties for that one day to be paid by the defendants, Sprotons, Limited.

BRITISH POSTAL ORDERS.

GENERAL POST OFFICE,
Georgetown, 20th January, 1903.

FOR the convenience of persons making small remittances to the United Kingdom and certain British Post Offices abroad, British Postal Orders will in future be sold to the Public by this Department.

These Orders for fixed sums from 1s. to £1, will be available for sale at the several Money Order Offices in Georgetown and at the Post Office, New Amsterdam, on and after the 1st of February next. Other Money Order Offices to which application may be made for British Postal Orders will obtain them and deliver them to the purchasers.

British Postal Orders sold in this Colony are payable at any Money Order Office in the United Kingdom (including the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man) and at the British Post Offices at Constantinople, Smyrna and Salonica, and at the British Postal Agency at Panama. They are not payable in British Guiana.

The following are the denominations of the British Postal Orders sold at the Money Order Offices in Georgetown, and at the New Amsterdam, and the charges for the same, viz:—

Amount of Order.	With Commission (Including British Poundage.)
One Shilling	26 Cents.
One Shilling and Sixpence	38 do.
Two Shillings	52 do.
Two Shillings and Sixpence	64 do.
Four Shilling	$ 1 00
Five Shillings	$ 1 24
Ten Shillings	$ 2 44
Ten Shillings and Sixpence	$ 2 56
Twenty Shillings	$ 4 38

The Purchaser of a British Postal Order must, before forwarding it, fill in the name of the person to whom the order is to be paid and may fill in the name of the Money Order Office at which the amount is to be paid. If the name of a Money Order Office is not entered by the purchaser, the Order will be payable at any Money Order Office named by the Payee.

The purchaser should keep a record of the serial number and date and name of the Office of issue of the order to facilitate inquiry if the order should be lost. In case of the miscarriage or loss of a British Postal Order, unless proof can be given to the satisfaction of the British Post Office that the name of the Payee was inserted in the order before the holder parted with it, and unless the number of the order can be furnished, the British Post Office cannot undertake to trace the order with a view to accounting for the miscarriage or loss thereof.

If a British Postal Order be crossed & Co. payment will only be made through a banker and if the name of a banker be added, payment will only be made through that banker.

After a British Postal Order has once been paid, to whomsoever it is paid, the British Post Office will not be liable to any further claim.

If any erasure or alteration be made, or if the order is cut, defaced or mutilated, payment may be refused; and when payment is refused on any of these grounds, no refund of the value of the order can be granted in British Guiana.

The Purchaser of a British Postal Order is recommended not to delay the transmission to the payee. After the expiration of three months from the last day of the month of issue, a British Postal Order will be paid only on payment by the payee of a commission equal to the amount of the original British Poundage marked on the order, with the addition (if more than three months have elapsed since the said expiration) of the amount of the original poundage for every further period of three months which has so elapsed, and for every portion of any such period of three months over and above every complete period.
